Probe Report Of Spy Ring

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—In strictest secrecy, a blue-ribbon jury of 14 men and nine women today pressed its investigation of a reported internationally active spy ring in Philadelphia.

Seven witnesses were heard as the all-out investigation of all enemy agents, saboteurs and fifth columnists began. U. S. Attorney General A. Gleeson asked that the witnesses remain anonymous.

Taking measures to plug any leaks, Judge George A Wash cautioned the jurors to hold their tongues and to charge the witnesses who came before them that they must not do any talking elsewhere.

Turning to reporters, the judge asked "the members of the press to co-operate with us in maintaining secrecy. In times like these publication of information going to the grand jury might do a great deal of harm."

Soviet Planes Bomb Germany During Night

American Flying Fortresses And R. A. F. Also Hammer Western Germany

RADIO STATIONS SILENT FOR HOURS

Believe That Jittery Conditions Are Developed In Germany By Heavy Raids

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Soviet planes bombed Germany, Budapest and other places in Hungary last night, it was revealed today, following the damaging air attacks on western Germany by American Flying Fortresses and Royal Air Force units.

Operations of the United Nations planes placed Germany in the center of a veritable "sky pincers" movement as the Nazi war production centers were assaulted from both the east and the west.

DNB, the official German news agency, admitted in a broadcast, picked up here, that the Soviet bombers had crossed the Nazi border and inflicted damage at several points.

The Nazi propaganda outlet contended that damage was only "slight," and described the Russian attacks as "nuisance raids."

While the mighty Soviet aircraft loosened their loads, indications that Royal Air Force bombers were again over the continent was seen in the silencing of radios in Berlin and other continental centers, from 7:30 to 11 o'clock last night.

No announcement of night continental raids was made by the R. A. F., however.

New Pressure Put On Vichy

Washington Hears Germany Is Demanding Closer Collaboration Now

SEEK EXTENSION OF ARMISTICE POWER

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Diplomatic advices reaching Washington today indicated that Germany is bringing new pressure to bear on Vichy for closer collaboration with the Axis.

The Nazis, according to the advices, not only are eager to "assist" in the defense of Dakar, but are seeking an extension of the powers of the Italo-German armistice conditions.

Under the original terms of the armistice imposed on France by Germany and Italy, these commissions were supposed to maintain supervision over the de-militarized French. Germany would now like to have the commission empowered to authorize measures for the security of the bases.

Berlin also is understood to be pressing Premier Pierre Laval to send more French workers to Germany.

In resisting the more extreme Nazi demands, Laval is said to be

Phone Calls To News For Scores Are Banned

Due to war emergencies and the necessity of elimination of all non-essential telephone calls during the present war period, the annual fall service by The News, that of giving scores of football games in response to telephone calls, is banned this year.

The News will post the score of the New Castle games at The News office as usual, but no information can be given over the phone concerning progress of the games or final scores.

The step was deemed advisable because of the uncertainties of war emergencies, and the necessity of keeping telephone lines in this city open for essential calls at all times.

For the duration of the war, the football score service by phone at The News, must be sidetracked, so please do not call The News for any football scores, or reports on progress of any games, this season.

Conjecture Gen. Rommel May Have Been Removed

By W. A. SAPHIRE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, Sept. 10.—Allied military circles today considered the possibility that Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel, their desert foe, has been removed from command of the Axis forces in the middle east.

Reports reaching the Allied lines indicated that Rommel has been summoned back to Berlin.

The Nazi field marshal was said to be ill.

German prisoners, captured in the Axis' offensive last week, were quoted as saying that Rommel's illness partly is due to nervous strain and over-exertion imposed upon him by the loss of his right-hand aide, General Von Bismarck.

May Be Replaced

Military sources here wondered, however, if Rommel's "illness" is fictitious. Many were inclined to believe that his return to Berlin will

Executive Order Outlaws Penalty On Double Time For Sundays

ANTI-INFLATION MOVE IS STARTED

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—President Roosevelt set the pace—and a precedent—for congress today in an executive order outlawing penalty double time payment for Sunday work the first move on his Labor Day pledge to stabilize wages.

Coming a scant two days after he called upon congress to control soaring farm prices by Oct. 1, the first of his promised anti-inflation orders makes universal a "No Sunday double time" pay practice already invoked by many unions.

It makes formal and binding the pledge given months ago by Presidents William Green of the AFL and Philip Murray of the CIO that such payments would be voided voluntarily by labor for the duration of the war.

The order permits double time payment for any individuals' "seventh consecutive day of work" to

Basic Military School Training Now Advocated

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Basic military training in high schools and preparatory schools in place of inter-sectional sports was advocated today by Public Utility Commissioner Richard J. Beamish.

He explained that the office of defense transportation and the public utility commission had banned the use of busses to transport athletic teams and spectators to sports contests for the duration of the war and that it was necessary to provide another substitute for sports competition.

"I believe that every high school and preparatory school in the United States should be equipped with instructors fully qualified to give the same basic physical training that now is given in such efficient training centers as those of the training camps of the U. S. Marines," Beamish said.

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—Harbingers of the cruel Russian winter that crippled Adolf Hitler's armies last year, the first extensive autumn rain fell on the Stalingrad front today.

Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock staged repeated attacks against Soviet defenses there and at Novorossisk, where the situation was officially described as "strained."

Although Soviet forces continued to repel all attacks, the Russian position both west and southwest of Stalingrad became more critical.

Governor Talmadge Appears Defeated

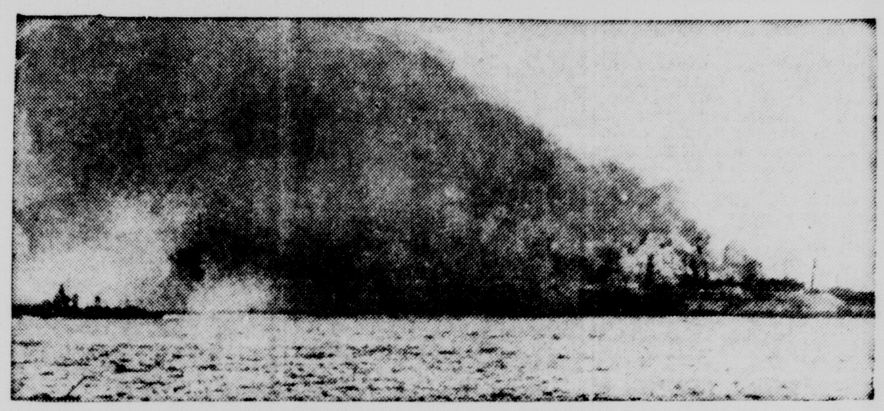

(International News Service)

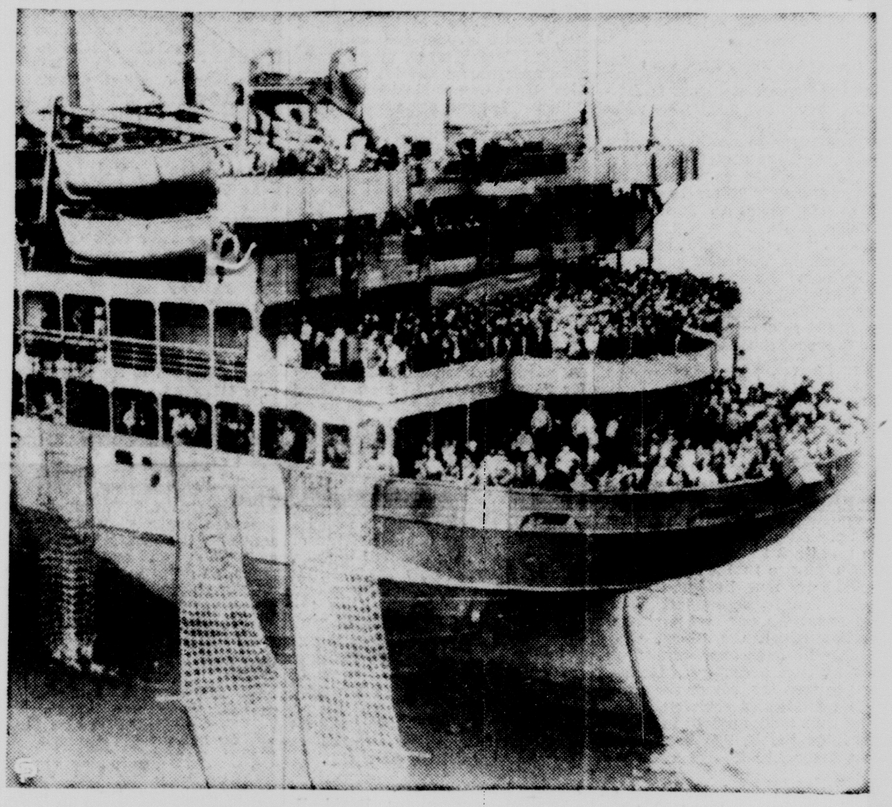

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—Gov. Eugene Talmadge, seeking his fourth term as governor of Georgia, was defeated by his youthful opponent, Attorney General Ellis Arnall, on the basis of incomplete returns today from yesterday's Democratic primary.

Talmadge, a picturesque, red-callused veteran of 25 years in political life, had campaigned as a champion of "white supremacy."

Although the final count may shift a few county unit votes from one candidate to the other, Arnall appeared to have a sufficient margin to assure him of the nomination, which on the Democratic ticket in Georgia is tantamount to election.

Churchill Says India Situation Is Improved

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 10.—India's internal situation at the moment is "reassuring and continues to improve," Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today.

"It gives no occasion for undue despondency or alarm," he said.

Making his long-awaited statement on the Indian problem, Churchill said that the declaration formulated by Sir Stafford Cripps on his mission to New Delhi must be accepted as representing the government's settled policy.

The recent disobedience campaign by National Congress party followers of Mohandas K. Gandhi "might well have been aided" by Japanese fifth columnists and were on a widely extended scale especially at strategic points, he said.

U. S. Forces Hold Pacific Initiative

New Jap Thrusts Likely, However

U. S. Intention To Fight Offensively In Pacific Seen In Communique

NEW JAPANESE BASE IS BOMBED

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Although fresh Japanese thrusts were expected momentarily in the Pacific, United States forces today appeared to be holding the initiative on a front extending from freezing Alaskan waters to the steamy Solomons.

In the Solomons American forces continued to hold the offensive despite frequent but unsuccessful attempts by the Nipponese to regain a foothold on islands lost to U. S. Marines early in August.

While news from the Aleutian area has been scarce for weeks, there was every indication that American sea and air forces there have succeeded in keeping the Japs "pinned" to the three isolated and undefended U. S. islands in the Kiska section which the enemy seized early in June.

New Base Bombed

Latest intimation of America's determination to fight offensively in the Pacific was contained in a navy communique which reported that U. S. planes bombed a Hitherto unmentioned enemy base in the Solomons.

The communique disclosed that on September 6, U. S. planes bombed and stafed Nipponese shore installations at Gizo island in the New Georgia group, approximately 250 miles northwest of the newly-acquired American air base on Guadalcanal.

It was the first mention of this island in the Solomons campaign, and the first time since the start of the U. S. offensive there that American planes have ranged so far to attack surrounding enemy installations.

At the same time the navy reported that U. S. Marines still are mopping up Nipponese units on important Guadalcanal island.

Hunt Jap Detachments

"Marines on Guadalcanal continue to seek out and attack Japanese detachments," the communique said. "These are made up of Japanese soldiers that fled to the jungles during our initial landing, on August 7, possibly reinforced by small numbers of troops landed from time to time under cover of darkness."

Also revealed was the fact that a navy patrol plane on September 5 shot down a large Japanese four-engined flying boat northeast of the Solomons. This brought to at least 123 the number of enemy planes destroyed to date in the Solomons action.

So far as the Aleutians were concerned, the attiude in official circles appeared to be one of watchful waiting for possible Japanese moves but also one of confidence that enemy forces picked a "rat trap" for themselves when they took Kiska and nearby islands.

American planes, submarines and surface vessels have taken a heavy toll of Japanese warships and supply boats in the Aleutians to date. Significantly, the Nipponese have made no attempt to expand their positions in the North Pacific.

SOVIET PLANES BOMB GERMANY DURING NIGHT

er-bombers across the English channel and sank two of four German armed trawlers west of Cherbourg on the French coast.

Efforts of the German propaganda agencies to belittle allied bombing raids along with other evidence led war observers to believe that Nazi nerves are growing taut and increasingly jittery in the wake of the widespread and sustained bombings.

Experts familiar with the machination of Nazi inner circles think that the raids executed by American, British and Russian aircraft not only have caused commotion among the German populace but also have stirred the Reich government to unusual measures designed to stop the public's growing dissatisfaction.

One by one, the radio stations strung over Germany and through its enslaved lands, adopted sudden silence between 7:30 p. m. and 11 p. m. the vast Deutschland sender, Germany's Homer Service, went off the air first. Subsequently, stations at Vienna, Austria, Prague, capital of Bohemia-Moravia, and Bratislava, Slovakia, shut down.

The broadcasting company in Budapest issued air raid instructions, then went off the air for the whole night as Russian bombers soared nearer to give the city its second bombing attack in history.

The unprecedented silencing of radios so widely scattered over Chancellor Hitler's domain was interpreted as proof of anxiety in the Reich and its puppet states.

Additional examples of German jitters were seen in the fact that Air Marshal Hermann Goering has yet to tell the populace that American bombers, the lethal B-17's, have added new impetus to British air forces attacking the Reich.

CONJECTURE GEN. ROMMEL MAY HAVE BEEN REMOVED

be at the request of higher authority and that it will mean Chancellor Hitler has decided to delegate the desert divisions to another leader.

In wake of the debacle of his retreat, Rommel's forces remained inactive, apparently gathering what is left of themselves to begin their campaign anew.

Allied forces, meanwhile, bolstered their strength with new equipment as the Royal Air Force disclosed it had frustrated the enemy's first efforts to replace losses.

The R.A.F. split up the first convoy sent to Rommel since his offensive backfired.

Hit Convoy

In an all night attack, the British and Australian planes hit an enemy destroyer and two merchant ships that were carrying supplies and replacements to Rommel's battered army. Full result of the onslaught were not observed, the R.A.F. stated, adding that the convoy had been split up.

In an attack that may presage an Allied offensive in the middle east, R.A.F. light and heavy bombers blasted Tobruk again last night. Fires swept the city and explosions were heard after the attack.

Allied headquarters, meanwhile, disclosed that a desperate German effort to turn the tide of the recent battle was stopped completely.

Nazi commandos sought to land by sea behind the British lines to effect widespread sabotage and cause confusion.

The Germans tried this attack on several occasions, it was said, while Rommel's forces were advancing in the south. Each attack was repelled and the Nazis returned to their bases.

mountain trails and through the jungle-clad slopes, advancing 20 miles from the Kokoda-Myola area to Efolgi, which is on the south or Port Moresby side of the Owen Stanley range.

Rough Country

Efolgi is 10 miles south of the mountain gap where it had been expected the Allied forces would make a stand. But it was considered probable that the defenders withdrew in order to extend the enemy supply lines which lead over the roughest sort of country.

They must haul supplies up the difficult mountain roads to their present advanced positions while the Allied lines have shortened. As the Japanese advance, it was pointed out, their supply situation will deteriorate.

The Allied ground forces, believed to consist almost entirely of Australians, are under command of Lieut. Gen. S. F. Rowell, who is an experienced field officer. He was second in command to Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey in the Middle East.

Will Be Exposed

Much rugged country, dotted with towering peaks, still lies ahead of the advancing Japanese. And in their advanced positions they will be more exposed to Allied air attacks from the fighter and bomber bases at Port Moresby. The Allied planes not only will have shorter runs to get at the enemy, but they will not have to clear the highest areas of the mountains which are frequently smothered in fog.

Allied aircraft were reported to be steadily bombing and strafing the Japanese columns, and giving valuable aid to the ground troops who were declared to be "fighting tenaciously and gallantly under conditions of extraordinary hardship and difficulty."

Two outflanking movements carried enemy detachments around the main Allied positions south of the mountain pass and established them at the rear of the Australian positions. It was considered likely that a number of Allied patrols may have by-passed, but this did not necessarily mean they have been trapped.

Familiar With Tactics

Australian units which fought the Japanese in Malaya are familiar with their tactics, and there Aussie patrols made their way back to their bases after days of isolation.

The Japanese were reported to be armed with automatic rifles and mortars. The latter were probably the small 2-inch weapon which International News Service Staff Correspondent Pat Robinson, now in New Guinea, reported had been found strapped to the legs of Japanese prisoners.

The enemy drive was reported to be making headway in fighting now going on along a narrow trail which crosses a mountainous divide south of the main pass on the Port Moresby-Kokoda road.

While fighting continued inland, Japanese patrols were reported active in the coastal bases of Lae and Salamaua and forward of Mubo, 10 miles south of Salamaua.

The strength of the Japanese forces pushing on Port Moresby is not known. The original landing force at the Buna-Gona base on the northern shore of the New Guinea tip was reported to have been 2,500 men, but reinforcements probably have been landed.

arguing with the Germans that collaboration must proceed gradually if serious internal trouble in France is to be avoided.

In this connection, it was learned that the Vichy government has not dared reveal to the French people the mass deportation of Jewish refugees from unoccupied France.

The Vichy-controlled French newspapers have not been permitted to publish a line about these deportations nor has the American government's protest to Vichy over the deportation been published or otherwise made known in France.

Reports are now being received that the Catholic clergy in unoccupied France is beginning to call public attention through the churches to the fact that the Vichy government has been turning over thousands of Jewish refugees to the Germans for deportations to eastern Europe.

The Jewish national committee recently charged that more than 3,000 refugees already have been turned over by the vichy authorities to the Germans. It is claimed that Vichy agreed to deport a total of 10,000 of these refugees. It is hoped in American quarters that the opposition by the church in France and the U. S. protest will deter Laval from carrying out any further mass deportation.

FIRST EXTENSIVE AUTUMN RAIN AT STALINGRAD

the Mozdok area, where a substantial German force is trapped and is being "methodically" wiped out.

Hopes were held out that the rainfall which broke a terrific heatwave at Stalingrad would continue in order that German mechanized units would be slowed down by a soggy terrain.

Today's early communique made it clear that the Soviet forces had rallied strongly after yesterday's withdrawals in the face of massed German tank thrusts.

The midnight communique had admitted retreat from two towns on the front west of Stalingrad, and conceded a Nazi breakthrough to the suburbs of Novorossisk on the Black Sea.

(London received a Reuter's dispatch from Moscow early today reporting bloody fighting was under way within Novorossisk.)

But today's official account of the battle along the Volga and in the western Caucasus told of all-out, bitter fighting in which repeated Nazi assaults were repelled everywhere.

"Fighting continued west of Stalingrad where the enemy, using tanks and motorized infantry, staged repeated attacks which were repelled with heavy casualties.

Attacks Repulsed

"Southwest of Stalingrad all attacks of the advancing enemy were repulsed.

"Fierce fighting continued in the area of Novorossisk. The enemy pressed back our troops to the outskirts but the Soviet's later counter-attacked and threw back the Germans with heavy casualties."

In the Mozdok sector of the central Caucasus, where a German force was attempting to drive on the Grozny oil fields some 60 miles away, the Russians were reported to be on the offensive, continuing the "annihilation" of Nazi forces that crossed the Terek river several days ago.

But nowhere had the massive Nazi assaults pierced the Soviet defenses or routed the determined Russian forces. Where pressure could not be borne they withdrew, but held their lines intact in grudging retreats, marked by frequent counter-attacks.

Terrible Losses

The terrible losses suffered by both sides was indicated in a Soviet information bureau announcement that between May 1 and August 31 the Red armies had routed 73 enemy divisions and annihilated 70 per cent of their effectives.

The 73 divisions would represent 750,000 to 1,000,000 men. The indicated German casualties would be from 500,000 to 750,000 men.

But the Soviet statement admitted that in the same period 42 Soviet divisions, and 25 brigades, including 14 tank brigades, also had suffered considerable losses.

The routed enemy divisions included 54 German and 8 Rumanian units, and the remaining 11 divisions were made up of Italian, Hungarian, Slovak and other troops of satellite nations.

In addition to routing 73 divisions with heavy losses, the Soviet announcement said another 21 infantry divisions, comprising 200,000 to 300,000 men, had lost probably between 40 and 60 per cent of their effectives.

London, Sept. 10.—Exchange Telegraph reported from Moscow today that the Russian troops at Novorossisk succeeded in encircling the first German forces that entered the city, but subsequently were attacked from several directions.

The Germans surged forward, according to the report, from a number of points, including the rear of the Soviet lines. The rear assault was made by Nazi landing forces, put ashore from the Black Sea.

agreement with officials of the French island of Martinique for control of the island. The United States has been granted full powers to insure against Axis U-boats operating in the waters off the island, and to deal with any Axis agents who may be on the island or later visit it, the Daily Sketch story said.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Berlin was bombed last night, the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet said today, according to Reuters news agency.

The Svenska Dagbladet asserted the German capital was subjected to a "small-scale" raid, presumably carried out by Russian aircraft.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 10.—In the less than five months the war has raged in the southwest Pacific, at least 477 enemy aircraft have been shot down, destroyed on the ground or damaged, it was disclosed today in a review of communiques issued since April 24.

The reports listed 300 planes destroyed, 70 severely damaged and 107 probably damaged. Pilots think the real total is well over 500, as it is almost impossible to judge the losses when bombs are dropped on parked enemy planes.

The 300 planes listed as destroyed included 202 fighters, 69 bombers, 18 seaplanes and 11 of unspecified types.

ROME, Sept. 10—(By official Italian wireless)—The capture of an American pilot, whose plane was forced down during an attack over Ragusa, on the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia, was claimed today by the Italian high command.

According to the high command, the American flyer and three other pursuit planes were attacked by Italian chasers. The American, it was said, was "compelled to land."

It is quite a coincidence that yesterday was the hottest day of September so far, and that a year ago the same date the temperature rose to 95, being one of the hottest of last summer.

Highland school janitors who are caretakers of the Boyles Field playground opposite the school have the field in most appealing condition. The grass has been kept cut short, and the field is most attractive. Elm trees that were planted around the field some years ago by the Men's Garden club are also developing nicely.

The Diamond That Faced a Firing Squad!

Emperor Maximilian

Found its first, famous owner in Ferdinand Maximilian, who was sent by Napoleon III to be Emperor of Mexico in 1864. His pathetic reign as a "puppet" king lasted only three years, and was ended by a firing squad. Around the neck of the fallen monarch was a little chamois bag, containing the great gem, which he had intended to have set in his crown. It was sent to his wife, the Belgian-born Empress Carlotta, who afterwards went mad. From the collection of Czar Nicholas II of Russia, this unique stone found its way to its present owner, Mr. Ferdinand Hotz, well-known jeweler of Chicago.

NEW PHASE OF WAR

CURRENTLY the war is reaching that phase where axis aggression, depending heretofore on dash and dispatch, is resorting under compulsion to slow, dragging attack. This is the present outstanding feature of the conflict in the European, African and Asiatic campaigns. It is the barrier against permanent progress to which Yamashita has come—likewise von Bock and Rommel.

Modern mechanization of military power packed an illusion in the early days of the war. It appeared to favor the audacious offensive. The tank, the plane, the motorized gun and the gasoline-driven transport emphasized the factor of mobility to the point that advantage seemed on the side of the strategist who struck quickly. The strategis who was fooled by this illusion pust most reliance on machines and least on manpower. A small force thoroughly mechanized was rated by him superior in attack to a numerous force acting defensively.

Today after three years of this strategy Hitler finds himself falling back to the old tactics of massed advance. He is abandoning mechanized dash because it no longer works. Von Bock is hammering desperately in Southern Russia because the day of sensational assault belongs to the past. Rommel is frustrated in Africa because impetuous advance is no longer possible. Yamashita is proceeding ponderously because he found the headlong plunge into the Solomons fatal.

The new phase of war is preliminary to the exhaustion of axis aggression with the change of United Nations from a deliberate defensive to a final crushing offensive.

CHILDREN OF WAR

Some individuals will be able to say in the future that they began their life spans as prisoners of war. Among those who has arrived in America on the Gripsholm was Madeline Jeanette Owens. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Owens. She saw the light of day first in Stanley prison in Hong Kong. She was the only American child born in the prison but there were fourteen British children born during the internment.

Another American who arrived in New York was James Theron Ward. Six weeks ago he was born on one of the Japanese exchange liners, the Asama Maru. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil S. Ward, who were among the numerous American missionaries in the Orient when the war broke.

GANGING UP ON FLYING FORTRESSES

On their ninth daylight raid over occupied France, American Flying Fortresses suffered their first losses a few days since. The Nazis marshalled a big concentration of their most modern fighter planes, the Focke-Wulf 190s, and two of the Fortresses "failed to return."

It cannot be expected that even such planes as the Flying Fortresses can carry on daylight raids of this character without some losses. But in this raid they fought their way through to their target, an aircraft factory, dropped their bombs and fought their way back to English airfields. They shot down at least five Nazi fighters, probably destroyed another 13 and damaged at least 25 more of the Focke-Wulfs.

It is apparent that the Nazis have sized up the increasing problem created by these daylight raids and are trying to meet it by ganging up on the American bombers with overwhelming fighter forces.

It is to be hoped that the American Air Force can and will meet that challenge by sending along with the Fortresses strong contingents of our own fighter planes suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer. This was done effectively yesterday in a new raid over Holland.

Daylight raids permit extremely accurate bombing and should be especially damaging to the morale of workmen in Nazi industries if they can be continued without too serious losses on our side.

FRANCE THIS WINTER

Famine is tightening down upon the people of France, their present condition being a fair example of the tragedy that overcomes a nation when it is conquered. The basic food of France is wheat. The crop is fair and would be sufficient if distribution could be effected and if the Nazis did not steal a major part of it.

Severe penalties are to be applied to farmers in the zone under control of the Vichy outfit who hide any of their production. Wheat fed to livestock will subject the livestock to seizure. Dry weather has cut the hay and feed crops and farmers are getting rid of their younger meat animals. That foreshadows a certain shortage in the meat markets later.

What is more menacing than the supply of bread and meat is the problem of getting food to the consumers. Before the war France had 2,300,000 automobiles. It imported the fuel to run them and the grease to lubricate them. Today the country is short of gasoline and grease. The railroads are approaching a state of dilapidation. Failure of rainfall has aggravated industry's lack of water and that adds to the consumer's economic misery by making it more difficult to obtain the little food that the Germans permit him to have if he has the price.

In their long history the French, normally frugal, have faced many a fearful winter, but no nation, since the inauguration of implemented society in production and transportation, has ever neared cold weather under more distressing circumstances than conquered France does today.

Remember the good old Horse and Buggy days when, if a young man wanted to take a popular girl buggy riding, he had to get a priority order from her mother.

In the good old Horse and Buggy days the only second fronts we had to worry about was the one that developed at forty inside the masculine beltline.

Remember the good old days when you could cure rheumatism by carrying around an Irish potato or a buckeye?

On the record he has made this year it is doubtful whether Mussolini will ever stage a comeback from the minor leagues.

It is said that the system of war priorities will do away with campaign buttons for this year. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good..

TRAIN BOYS AND GIRLS IN NEEDLEWORK

Only a few short years ago thrifty mothers were saying they could buy clothes ready-made as cheaply as to make them; and children as well as adults were not happy to admit, as a rule, that they were wearing a cut-down or made-over garment. Even home economics courses in our schools were having girls sew less and less year by year, on the assumption they would probably not sew at home thereafter.

The war has made a difference. Sewing in the United States was stimulated by the war abroad before our country was one of the United Nations. Helping the Red Cross clothe war refugees in Europe began a revival of home sewing throughout our country. Since Pearl Harbor there are added motives for home sewing, one of which is more time at home, thanks to rationing of tires and gas. Anyway, it is the home folks who are whirring sewing machines and having salespeople spread out bolts of material.

The nation over, sales of piece goods has increased from 40 to 50 per cent over similar periods in former years and pattern sales have almost kept pace.

Sewing for Red Cross

The present popularity of home sewing is credited to the sewing groups which originally accepted Red Cross work for making clothes out of new and used materials for European children. During the first six months of 1942 more than a million garments have been requested for these children by the Red Cross and made by American women, with the cooperation of department stores which organized sewing groups.

The wide popularity of home sewing should, during the emergency at least, stimulate wider interest in sewing classes at school and help rid the mind of the public, even of some school principals and superintendents, of the silly notion that sewing courses at school are just for girls who can't learn well from books.

Let us hope the schools will capitalize on this interest in sewing (and a similar interest in cooking and selecting foods) and provide courses for all girls, and boys too, not only at junior and senior high levels but for the upper grades also.

Equipment

How about equipment? It need not be elaborate. One or several parents in the school district might lend the use of a few sewing machines, until permanent school equipment can be supplied. Too, they can learn much from sewing by hand. Even for elementary courses in cooking not much equipment is absolutely necessary. I have seen some regular classrooms fitted up for cooking courses at very little cost and teachers of regular school subjects also giving some instruction to their class in sewing or cooking together with geography, history or arithmetic.

One Man's Opinion

Barney Baruch will be up with that rubber report pretty soon. Then we will know whether it's the rubber or the conversation that's synthetic.

We can make all the rubber we need. We can make so much rubber that we never again would have to depend on an outside source of supply? But is that what we want?

Henry Wallace doesn't think so and he's not alone. He thinks we should make just enough for our war needs.

Even that isn't an original thought. The same thing came up in the last war. We had to have synthetic rubber and we had to have it right away. But we mustn't make so much of it that it would upset, after the war, the markets we always bought from.

Dig into the old newspaper files—you'll find 1942 repeating 1917. The same frantic search for rubber synthetics. The same frantic plans for making "just enough".

If any was made we've forgotten about it. If any is being made now in quantity we haven't heard about it.

Thought for the day: Today can wait . . We're planning for tomorrow.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

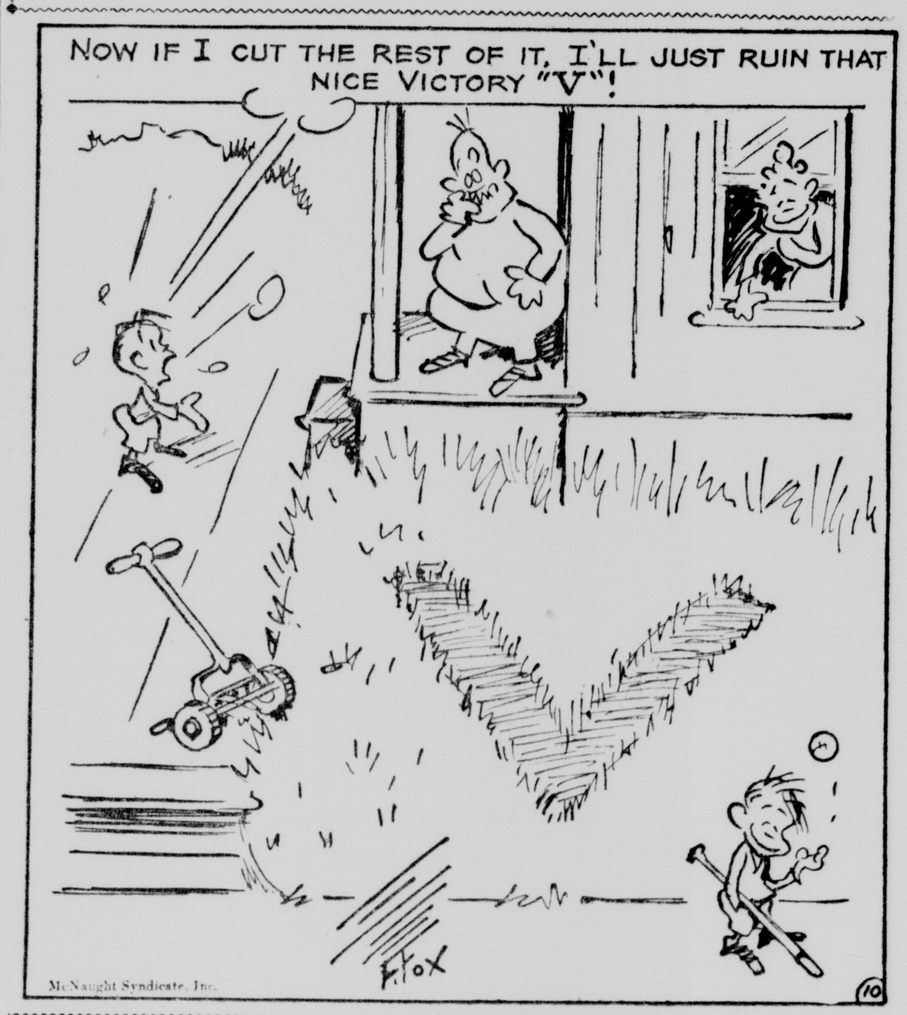

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill testifies on American bombers and methods: "There is no doubt that both in accuracy of high level aims and mutually defensive power, new possibilities in air warfare are being opened up by our American comrades and their flying fortresses."

NEW YORK—Leon Henderson, federal price administrator: "We are all in this war—and the stakes are all or nothing."

ANNAPOLIS—Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy: "There can be only one outcome of the war. For the will to be free—the will to speak one's mind and to worship one's God in safety—are the fundamental driving forces of the human race."

ANKARA—Wendell Willkie on a second front: "The great majority of the American people desire a second front and will soon have an army of ten million to enforce their desires."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:18. Sun rises tomorrow 6:37.

The more we hear about Wendell Willkie the better we like him. A real American!

A California woman 107 years old attributes her long life to "never fret or worry". Being that old is enough to worry most any person.

A police matron in Philadelphia had her purse snatched from her not far from the station she works at. Maybe it was too far away from the station.

Passenger (to porter while on train for New York): "What time do we get to New York, porter?"

Porter: "We is due to get there at 1:15, unless you has set your watch by Eastern time, which would make it 2:15; then, of co'se, if you is goin' by daylight war time, it would be 3:15, unless we is an hour and fifty minutes late—which we is."

The more a man works for his own selfish interests, the more he works against them.

There are people who even do not believe what they see in a mirror when they look into one.

"And my dear, what are you going to do when you're a big girl?" "Oh, I'm going to be a stenographer so I can eat my breakfast at a soda fountain."

One person in every seven is said to be allergic to ragweed pollen, and since hay fever is universal, one form of torture would be to drop a few pollen bombs on German and Japanese troops and industrial centers . . . aimed, of course, at purely military objectives.

It will be interesting to know who raised the smallest tomato this year. We have an idea.

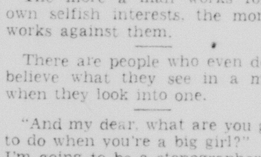

Things we can't understand: Telegraph companies are hiring more girls for messenger service and girls are supposed to be more musical than boys, nevertheless the singing telegrams are to be discontinued for the duration.

The cost of living with some people is all they can get.

If the people of the sticks suffer, give a thought to seething humanity in Washington, where a stranger has to have a kit of burglar tools to get into town.

One study that should be introduced in the public schools is how to read traffic signs.

Every time a light don't work now the people think it is a blackout.

If a rich bachelor seems chivalrous, he is feeling sorry for women because they haven't got him.

It is claimed that some football teams are lighter but faster this year. Wonder why?

Job had many afflictions, according to the Bible, but it is not recorded that he was afflicted with hay fever. Perhaps they did not have any vacant lots whose owners permitted ragweed to grow wild in those days.

The plumber worked and the helper stood helplessly looking on. He was learning the business. This was his first day. "Say," he inquired, "do you charge for my time?"

"Certainly, you idiot," came the reply.

"But I haven't done anything." The plumber, to fill in the hour, had been looking at the finished job with a lighted candle. Handing the two inches of it that was still unburned to the helper, he said, witheringly, "Here, if you gotta be so darn conscientious, blow that out."

It seems hard to get an air raid siren that will drown out the noise of some vehicles racing around over the streets blowing their horns and other noise makers.

"Now, dear," said the visitor, "if your mother gave you a large apple and a small apple and told you to give one to your brother, which would you give him?" "Do you mean my big brother, or my little one," was the reply.

THE MATTER OF CHARGES

Owner—"What will it cost me to have my car fixed?"

Garageman—"What's the matter with it?"

Owner—"I don't know."

Garageman—"Forty-eight dollars and 50 cents."

COLORS FOR BLONDES

"I am a typical blond, with natural golden hair, blue eyes and fair skin. What colors are most becoming to my type?"

Here is the answer I have given to this letter, just received: Your make-up—for your cheeks a delicate pink, slightly tinged with blue rather than with yellow. For dresses, suits, coats and hats select blues, blue-purples, purples, blue-greens and greens. To give contrasts, select trimmings, pipings and other small accessories from the other end of the spectrum—particularly, purple reds (not orange reds), dark American Beauty and dark magenta, but never henna. Your type calls for pearls and orchids, never poppies and autumn leaves. Delicate pastels will do more for you than any of the deeper shades.

Question: I have been asked by a boy to spend my two weeks' vacation at his home. He lives several hundred miles away and since he gets no vacation this summer, he would like me to spend mine with him. Mother thinks that since we are not engaged, I should not do this; but should instead stay with my married sister who lives near him and let him come to see me there. What should I do?—Catherine.

Answer: If you know his family, and his mother invited you to visit, there is no reason why you should not. However, it would be better, I think, for you to stay with your sister and have him visit you there, as your mother suggests. If a girl is properly chaperoned by a man's parents and she and her mother know them to be decent and respectable people, she may with propriety, visit his home.

FAMILIAR FOLKS: A LA MODE

The female of our species never has been quite content. And being clothed, but unadorned, is what they most resent.

Consider first, a woman's hair. No doubt she's proud of that. She curls and tints, then up above she adds a dinky hat.

She's falsified her natural shape, through many variations, suppressing curves or adding one to suit the mode's creations.

One time she'll strive to cover up all feminine appeals. Then suddenly, her scant attire 'most everything reveals.

She dashes color here or there, on velvet cheeks or paws. Can those red things be finger nails? They're like flamingo claws.

We're often shocked, but not surprised, by her fantastic clothes. We may expect she'll file her teeth—wear ham bones in her nose.

There's nothing much a man can do. It really doesn't matter. Unless, like those Ubangi maids, each lip contains a platter.

After the farmer watches his fine corn grow all summer, he has to begin to think of cutting it down and also husking it and after that feeding it to his pigs. And then the pigs have to be killed.

Just so long as some birds are not asked to do anything but talk, they do fairly well.

AMERICAN HUMOR

An Englishman had spent some time in America. He told a friend that he wished to take back to England a bit of real American humor, so the Englishman was asked this riddle by a superintendent of schools:

"My mother gave birth to a child. It was neither my brother nor sister. Who was it?"

The Englishman gave up. "It was I," said the superintendent of schools.

In England the Englishman propounded the riddle in this way. A woman gave birth to a child. It was neither male nor female. What was it?"

Of course, no one could answer such a silly question, and all gave up. "Who was it?" a fellow Englishman asked.

"By jove, so you cawnt give the answer?" said the Englishman from America. "He was superintendent of schools!"

A man, obviously in a hurry, galloped into a drug store.

"I want a tablet right away," he cried.

"What kind?" asked the clerk.

"A yellow one, or a white one, I don't care which," said the man. "I'm in a hurry."

"What's the matter with you, sir?" asked the clerk.

"I tell you I'm in a hurry," cried the man. "Gimme a tablet, quick. I've got to write a letter."

Yet only imagination makes one woman's kisses seem sweeter than another's in the dark.

We have always said the sales tax would come. It is the only real tax and will get the money.

Enemies are not so bad. They don't stand close enough to breathe their flu bugs into our systems.

When a North Hill boy was asked what he wanted to take his cod liver oil with he replied, "With a fork."

His mother spanked him, but this was a bad mistake, for the youngster was showing the mental alertness that makes people say a man is smart. But when it crops up in a boy, to many parents say the lad is being a smart alec.

FBI Is Distracted From Real Task
Amateur Sleuths Are Often Harmful
Have Hampered Work Of Hoover's Men

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—For an ordinary, unofficial individual to hint at a suspicion that considerable hysteria is responsible for much of the talk of enemy spying activities in our midst isn't very safe for the citizen who risks saying so. He's apt to get himself accused of disloyalty of his own, attracting the investigators' attention to himself and making his life miserable.

Attorney General Francis Biddle expressed himself on the subject, however, as a cabinet member, making a formal report to Congress, with a good bit of authority.

The justice department's head referred especially to charges of an extensive un-American movement in the ranks of governmental employes.

The federal bureau of investigations, headed by J. Edgar Hoover, of his departmental staff, has probed more than 4,500 of these cases, certified to it from various sources, and ascertained that nine-tenths of them were a pure waste of time and money to bother with, according to the attorney general.

He doesn't deny that there may be a modicum of subversion (by one in 10 of the suspects pointed to) but his thesis is that the FBI had better be left to devote itself to real espionage instead of being distracted in so many directions that don't require the slightest bothering with.

Too Many Amateurs

The FBI, he intimates, will do a better job if left to itself than if it is annoyed by so much amateur detective work.

It is a fact that charges of espionage are far more prevalent now than they were during the last war. Probably it's because enemy governments' secret agencies are greatly better organized today than they were then. There also is the greatly increased number in the mixture of "isms". Some folks are mildly

BE ON GUARD

There are people in this nation today who assert that by ordering each citizen's affairs, Washington can assure a better living for everyone, everywhere, and produce "the coming century of the common man."

On the other hand, great philosophers see nothing but chaos in turning over to the common man the reins of society. They say he cannot plan for himself, much less for his fellows; that he has no stomach for responsibility, and takes no thought of, nor makes provision for, tomorrow.

Business men disagree with both the pessimists and lyrical well-wishers. They have been jockeyed into the false and ironical position that they have no concern for the under-privileged, but by word and action they have proved their faith in the common, ordinary, garden variety of mankind.

A business man, howeves, is forced to consider "existing facts which stand in the way of desirable ends", but he believes that free enterprise holds the greatest promise for the individual.

Robert Hunter has written what he calls "Revolution" and in this work he sums up the results of the two forms of society in terms of living standards of the common man and says that eight countries with less natural resources but with capitalism and a representative democracy overtop by ten times the well-being of the individual in those countries with State domination of industry and various forms of autocracy, and Mr. Hunter concludes with this:

"Capitalism is a product of the freedom, thrift and hard labor of multitudes and their standards of living cannot be improved when they are the habitual victims of the

Tender and fragile, should the frost
For one brief nighttime early call,
The work of all the weeks is lost,
The dahlias, blackened, stricken fall.

The cold north wind will chill them through.
No heart have they to fight their foes.
They lack the will to dare and do.
They find no joy exchanging blows.

Though strong the dahlia blooms appear,
Their courage doesn't match their size.
They dread the hazards of the year,
With one brief frost their bravest dies.

And there are men so finely made,
So tender, and so lightly stirred,
Like dahlias, of life's frosts afraid,
They cannot stand one cruel word.

Food

Washington, Sept. 10.

NEXT YEAR the war will be really brought home to the American people. Next year the inconveniences will not be little ones nor the sacrifices light. Next year everybody will feel the pinch in a way they have not as yet conceived. In other words, we have not felt anything yet. We may as well face the facts.

NEXT YEAR the casualties will be as much greater abroad as the taxes will be heavier at home. To gasoline and sugar rationing there will be added food rationing in a big way. And there will be restrictions and shortages and regulations and requirements of which we have not dreamed. They will make those of the last war seem insignificant. For, in character as in size, the last war, compared to this war, was relatively small. Last time our resources were never really strained nor was the threat to our land a reality. This time, in a war immeasurably vaster, longer and more dangerous and without safety menaced on both sides, our resources in men, money and material will be strained to the utmost limit to crush a ruthless and vindictive foe. It cannot be done without affecting far more deeply than has yet been done the lives of every man, woman and child.

TAKE THE question of food. The facts about food have not yet been frankly stated, but those best informed on the situation know that there is a definite threat of a nation-wide food shortage next year. There will be no need for anyone to go hungry. The shortage will not be that acute. But, it will be acute enough to make certain kinds of food scarce in certain sections and to compel people as a whole to revise their eating habits. And there will be food rationing on a wide scale. It will not be the price of food that will matter so much next year as the quantity and quality. The seasons for this prospective shortage are obvious.

THE CHIEF one, of course, is the fact that food in quantities greater than anyone ever thought possible will have to be sent abroad to feed our constantly expanding armed forces in all parts of the world. In addition, our allies depend now—and will depend more—upon food supplies from this country. Another reason is the shortage of farm labor. Farmers and farm hands are getting more money in factories.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Vernald J. Decker, 31-year-old farmhand of Oakland, Me., will have a year in the jail house to think what love can do to a man.

Vernald has been leading a rather prosaic life with his wife and six stepchildren until he fell in love with a fifteen-year-old girl whom he met when he went to work on a dairy farm in Massachusetts.

Then Cupid hit him right smack in the heart with his arrow and the heretofore tame cow-milker went berserk.

He stole a horse and saddle, picked up his lady-love, whom he knew just a week, and together they rode to Marlboro, Mass.

Here he sold the horse for $50, and the couple rode by bus to New York.

After a few days of sightseeing they hitch-hiked to Delaware, Washington, Virginia, North and South Carolina.

They ate whatever and whenever they could. They slept on the ground and in the barns.

Somehow they got to Union City, N. J. The girl sadder and maybe wiser for her experience, was taken back to her parents.

But Vernald, the Lochinvar, was tradicted to Massachusetts and enarged with horse-stealing, larceny and abduction. The judge gave him three sentences of one year each. But having been young himself, let them be served concurrently.

More has been written about Love than about any other subject in the world.

More crime has been committed, more foolish things done in the name of love than for any other cause.

Love has made knights out of knaves, lunatics out of sages, poets out of peasants and drooling babes out of bald-headed oldsters.

Yet, what is love? Will no one ever know?

We all know the symptoms; they are as obvious as a red nose.

We know its joys; it's "Paradise enow."

We know its pains. "Who ever heard a story of more woe, than that of Juliet and her Romeo?"

But the cure? Let us hope that no scientist, no medico will ever find the germ that causes it nor the drug that will cure it.

For it's better far to be sick with love than to be well without it.

Fall Forest Fire Season Has Arrived In State

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10—The Boy Scout movement is one of the most valuable agencies in the state for the elimination of forest fires, the Department of Forests and Waters said today.

George H. Wirt, chief forest fire warden, is conducting a campaign among scouts to reduce the number of forest fires that occur annually. He states that most of the forest fires during the autumn season occur within the latter part of September and the months of October and November. Every scout is asked to refrain from starting any fire outdoors during this period unless it is raining or unless the fire is more than 200 feet from a wooded area, with absolutely no danger of fire spreading through leaves or dead grass. He says this may work a hardship on some scouts but this proposition is one for the protection of their own interests and he believes that every scout will cooperate to the extent, not only of placing this restriction upon himself, but also of impressing the same idea upon everyone who is likely to be careless with fire in the open during this autumn season.

Ever since the Commonwealth was founded there have been laws on the statute books against the unnecessary burning of forest land, but only during the last twenty-five years has the State of Pennsylvania been building up an organization to protect the forests within its boundaries from fire. A tremendous effort has been made to develop a public opinion which would result, not only in prompt and effective extinction of forest fires, but in the prevention of such fires. Wirt points out that the conditions which prevail at the present time, are such that, in spite of progress as a people we are not eliminating the causes of fires and the conditions which result in fires. Some states are attempting to bring this condition about with legislative restrictions but in Pennsylvania it has been found more profitable to do this by education and cooperation rather than by the enforcement of laws.

Pennsylvania's Home Front

(By International News Service)

Despite the accelerated army demands for fighting personnel, there has been no let-up in occupational certifications throughout Pennsylvania. Draft officials now have certified more than 800 occupations in the Keystone state' principal industries as vital to the war effort. In the electric power industry alone, 86 occupations are listed as critical; 51 in the anthracite and soft coal fields and 159 shipbuilding and allied industries. This is sufficient proof that Pennsylvania is playing a stellar role in supplying Uncle Sam's "broadbacks" with the sinews of war as the nation's No. 1 producer.

The Office of War Information issues some valuable advice to motorists seeking to cope with the gasoline rationing problem. Says the O.W.I.: Don't take stamps out of the book because they aren't valid in loose form; don't keep the book in your car's glove compartment, don't fail to sign your book; don't try to use No. 2 stamps until September 22, and don't give or lend your ration book to anyone else to use.

War and its resultant demand for skilled and educated workers is creating a boom in Pennsylvania's colleges and universities. Almost all educational institutions in the state report higher enrollments. Larger freshman classes in the main compensate for upper classmen who have been drafted or who enlisted.

Along the same line, Lafayette College President William Mather Lewis urges college heads to wake up to the war and adapt their institutions for a mixmum fighting effort. He said: Such adaptation has to do with the training of our students for maximum effectiveness in war service both military and civil and for leadership in the great problems of social, political and economic reconstruction which is beyond the war."

Defense councils are giving increasing thought to the problem of the seventh column—industrial accidents. In Philadelphia alone accidents and deaths caused a loss of 450,464 man-hours during the month of June, it was officially reported.

Joseph A. Charles, 27-year-old Philadelphia steel worker, is a one-man defense project. He has collected 12,000 pounds of scrap metal and 6,000 pounds of rubber; toted tons and tons of sand for air raid wardens, and equipped an emergency ambulance. "I wish," said Charles, "that I had a little more time to do some things."

Physical Training For State Reserve

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—A rough-and-tumble physical training program designed to toughen officers and enlisted personnel of the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps today was scheduled to get underway within two weeks.

Brig. Gen. Robert M. Vail, corps commander, likened the proposed training to the commando-style given American Rangers in Europe. More than 200 officers and 3800 enlisted men will participate in the gruelling program, he added.

Training will include instructions on how to overcome barriers such as walls, deep ditches and the digging of trenches and fox holes, Vail said.

When mahogany first came into general use in England, early in the eighteenth century, it was called "Spanish mahogany", apparently because it was imported from Spanish colonies in the West Indies. By the end of the century, such masters as Chippendale, Adams, Hepplewhite and Sheraton had made it their favorite cabinet wood, and in Thomas Sheraton's book, "The Cabinet Directory", published in 1803, he refers to it as "Honduras mahogany".

Several of the officers wanted to loan the elderly man the money, but he said that with the high cost of living going up it would be money which he would be required to pay back, and said the law concerning the meters was taking "his rights away".

Newspapers To Aid State Drive For Scrap Metals

To Aid Campaign To Secure 3,000,000 Pounds In State By Christmas

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—The Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association today pledged the full cooperation of its members to the state salvage campaign to raise 3,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel by Christmas.

Colley S. Baker, secretary of the salvage advisory committee of the State Council of Defense, indicated the newspapers may sponsor local community competitions to spur collections, which are now about 75 per cent below quota.

He added that the 15-day scrap harvest campaign which opens Tuesday will be followed by a school salvage drive starting October 5. He said the aid of school children will be enlisted for approximately three weeks.

"The publishers are not taking over the salvage job," Baker declared, "but they will do everything possible to accelerate salvage collections in their communities."

Warren R. Roberts, state salvage chairman, said the scrap harvest drive would give local salvage committees and cooperating agencies an opportunity to "collect every remaining pound of scrap from the state's 170,000 farms"

He pointed out that federal salvage officials have estimated that "many steel mill furnaces will have to close down unless a backlog of scrap iron and steel is built up for winter operations."

What about the ltitle red lunch boxes carried to school?

Boxes are often very attractive on the outside.

The contents of the lunch box are the most important.

Quantity of food is not the chief concern.

Balance, quality and appeal are necessary.

Foods that are merely filling are inadequate.

Milk, eggs, butter, fruit and vegetables are needed.

Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches aid a balanced ration.

A tomato, orange or other fruit helps the noon lunch.

A neat, tidy lunch box makes the food taste better.

The Great Game Of Politics

Truck and railroad transportation is being curtailed and it is growing more difficult for farmers to get their stuff to market. In addition, adequate farm machinery and farm fertilizer will be almost unobtainable.

WHETHER IT 's called by that name or not, some sort of food administration is expected to be created soon—and the suggestion is that it probably will be under the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Claude Wickard. This business of food rationing is a complex and difficult proposition. It more closely affects more people than any other kind of rationing. The necessity of having it administered by a man of the greatest competence and experience is clear. It is one job that must not be bungled. It ought to be in the hands of a man in whom the people generally have confidence.

IT IS certainly doubtful that Mr. Wickard measures up to these requirements. There is nothing in his record to create belief in his ability to swing so vast and vital a job. Conceding that the new Food Administration should be a man of proven executive capacity as well as real experience, the name of former President Hoover will occur to most Americans as the logical choice. Mr. Hoover was Food Administrator under a Democratic President in the last war. In Belgium, prior to our entrance in the war, and after that war, in Russia, Poland and other countries, he distributed hundreds of millions of dollars worth of food to the starving people of many nations. Even among the most poisonous of the Hoover htaers, there hardly will be one arise to dispute that in this business of food rationing and food distribution, he is the outstanding authority of the world. Mr. Hoover has his faults. He isn't a man of tact and he is a poor politician. Some of the criticisms of him as President were deserved; some were terribly unjust. But, when it comes to his competency as a food administrator there can be but one opinion.

FEW WILL contend that he is not the best qualified man in the country to handle this job now. If there is to be a food administrator, in Mr. Hoover we have one ready made, able, trained, equipped, experienced, willing. If we are to have a food administrator, to choose any other is to pass over the best man and pick an inferior man. Is it too much to ask of the President, faced with a national food shortage—as he undoubtedly will be in a few months—that he sink his political hates, rise above his personal prejudices and call upon the man he cannot help but know is best qualified to do this job? Nothing would so enhance Mr. Roosevelt's reputation as a patriotic leader, willing to subordinate every personal interest to win the war.

What's What At A Glance

"ismatic" who aren't outright disloyal. They say things that get them into disrepute with 100-percenters.

At the present moment there's a pending political campaign which makes for unpleasant remarks back and forth.

Illustratively, Rep.esentative Martin Dies, star congressional investigator of enemy subversion in the United States, took a mean crack at Attorney General Biddle in answer to the latter's complaint of wildcat investigation. Biddle mentioned him, by name, as having turned in a huge percentage of ridiculous accusations. Congressman Dies' answer is that Biddle is less interested in winning the war than in winning the November election.

Biddle and Dies are of the same political party, by the way, but Martin had to make some sort of a comeback and that was the first thrust that occurred to him. It was inconsistent, but so is the whole controversy, generally.

As to this coming election, the fact is that Democrats quarrel more bitterly among themselves than Democrats quarrel with Republicans.

The Republicans' story is that they want to win in November for the purpose of doing a more effective job of war-winning than the Democrats are doiing. The Democrats disagree as to what THEIR administration is accomplishing.

This case illustrates it.

Inconsistency

Democratic Attorney General Biddle avers that Democratic Congressman Dies is gumming the cards by the latter's overdone investigation of subversion. Democratic Congressman Dies replies that that's what Biddle says because he is more interested in winning the election than he is in winning the war. Well, why, from Dies' Democratic standpoint, shouldn't Biddle be interested in winning the election Democratically? Presumably that Biddle's prescription for winning the war also isn't Democratic.

As fellow Democrats, they're aligned against one another, however.

All a Republican has to do is to argue that—

Yes, he is unqualifiedly for war victory, but he is anxious to win in November, because that's the surest way of doing it.

What makes him think so?

Why, because the Democrats are so quarreling among themselves that they are getting nowhere.

And he cites Biddle and Dies among others.

No other known fiber is quite equal to jute for the bagging and baling material used in the cotton industry of the United States and the coffee industry of the American Republics, according to the Department of Commerce.

The World and the Mud Puddles

interference and depredations of a despotic state. If planned economy administered by a bureaucracy could produce and distribute wealth profusely the people in the autocracies would have been the richest in the world."

It is disturbing to hear in Washington the statement of those in authority that bureaucratic domination of industry and commerce must continue during the "reconstruction period"

But there is hope. The people are getting a taste of State control of their affairs. At war they gladly relinquish their freedom to buy and sell; to decide for how much they shall work, and where and when and how; to count that day as unusual that does not bring from Washington some new regulation of their own private affairs. They won't tolerate such control when peace comes. What exultation of spirit would result if some of our national planners would recall the principles of free enterprise upon which the new Republic was launched one hundred and sixty years ago.

Washington must remember that our rulers can best promote the improvement of the nation by strictly confining themselves to their legitimate duties, by leaving Capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment, by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the State.

But that would be the Millenium.

Asserts Japan Plans Attack Upon Russia

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 10.—"Japan may attack Russia at any moment," according to Gen. Jose Luis Amezcua, Mexican minister to Japan, who has just arrived from the Orient.

This prediction was on record today following a conference last night between Gen. Amezcua and President Manuel Avila Camacho.

"Japan has 2,000,000 men on the Siberian frontier," the former minister declared in an interview. "She was mobilized in Manchukuo two years ago."

Russia will not be caught unprepared, he added. Her eastern territory has its independent army, and the productive power to supply it, he said.

Of the Japanese alliance with the Axis, Gen. Amezcua said it was an arrangement simply for convenience.

"Japan's interests clash with those of Germany," he said. "Japan aspires to world domination."

Company Loses Ships; Goes Into Food Dehydration

(International News Service)

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 10.—It's a long call from ships to dried apples but priorities are that way!

The Great Lakes Transit Corporation, which recently lost ten of its ships by government requisition, announced today that its stockholders had approved branching out into the field of food dehydration.

A new plant at nearby Lockport goes into production this week to turn out an estimated 100,000,000 pounds of dried apples, tomatoes, onions, carrots and cabbage annually for the armed forces and lend-lease.

Staggered Hours Urged For Schools

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—The immediate adoption of staggered hours to prevent the overburdening of public transportation facilities was urged today by Raymond H. Smith, executive secretary of the state highway traffic advisory committee. The fall opening of schools, he pointed out, has greatly aggravated the situation.

"The added burden of thousands of school children cannot be carried by our public transportation systems unless staggered hours are brought into effect throughout the state," he declared.

Marine League Renames Officers

Meeting Wednesday night for the annual election the Gunnery Sergeant Harry T. Burns detachment of the Marine league named its officers for the coming year. Because of the outstanding work of the officers in the past year, the detachment unanimously re-elected all of them. They follow:

Commandant Cecil Suber; vice commandant, Bryan Minner; adjutant and pay master, Franklin Blanning; trustees, Ralph A. Maturo, Peter J. McGinty; chaplain, Peter J. McGinty; sergeant-at-arms, Martin P. Fabian.

A report of the recent Chicago convention was given by Commandant Cecil Suber. In it he spoke of the enthusiastic reception given Louis B. Round of New Castle who addressed the convention. Mr. Round was the only civilian invited to address the convention.

Ways and means of engendering interest in the detachment and in recruiting for the Marine Corps were discussed by the members.

Jewish New Year Will Be Observed

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, is to be observed at Temple Israel, Highland and Moody avenues, on Friday and Saturday, September 11 and 12. Reform services are planned with Rabbi Leo E. Turitz to conduct the services and preach. The special high holy day choir is to present the music.

At the service Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Rabbi Turitz will speak on "Survival and Living." His sermon topic at the service Saturday morning at 10 o'clock will be "Our World Tomorrow."

The Jewish New Year falls this year on Saturday, September 12.

For the Jewish people throughout the world, Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, is the beginning of a ten-day period in which they take inventory of their deeds of the past year and pray for moral fortitude for the coming year. The holiday is not marked with hilarity but is distinctly a religious day devoted to the joy of prayer and divine forgiveness. Tradition has given it two names: the Day of Remembrance, the day on which the past is recalled so that the character of the future might be more in consonance with the spirit of religion; and the Day of Judgment. The services for this holiday is graced with special liturgic poems, hymns and prayers.

On this day, the ram's horn, called the Shofar, is blown in order to bring to mind the intended sacrifice of Isaac and the substitution of the ram, and thus remind us of God's providence. This horn is blown in peculiar fashion in a succession of thirty calls blown three times, plus an added group of ten.

Special items of diet are associated with the holiday, among them being honey and round loaves of white bread. The honey is meant to indicate the hopes for a sweet new year and the roundness of the loaves, which goes back to the Grecian concept of perfection, is to indicate the hopes for a perfect year.

Orthodox Jews celebrate the holiday two days. This they do, because, in ancient times, in lands outside of the Holy Land it was customary to celebrate for two days. This was done because the system of calendation was not perfect and the beginning of the new month was determined by verbal reports issued by the Palyestinian academiles. In order to insure the correctness of the day of celebration, in the eventuality of a late or delayed report, they celebrated two days. The Reform Jews, however, celebrate only the first of the days.

The special greeting with which Jews greet each other during the holiday is a Hebrew formula which, translated, means: "May you be inscribed for a good year," signifying the hope that God, in His mercy, will inscribe the recipient of the greeting in the Book of Life.

Ten days after Rosh Hashanah, the Day of Atonement is observed. The intervening period is called The Ten Days of Penitence. During this time the very pious fast until sunset and gather together to recite the supplicatory prayers called Selichoth.

Air raid wardens and other persons attached to the city O.C.D. movement are taking pride in their post headquarters. Some have been vastly improved during the past week or more. One of the nicest is the Ryantown precinct. The brewery has permitted use of the structure. It has been lined and furnished. New chandeliers have been installed, like-wise electric light switches. There has also been placed in the precinct quarters, a large mirror, a roll-top desk, two davenports and several chairs. Several other chairs also have been provided. At the office formerly used by an ice company in the first precinct of the Third ward, a big improvement also has been made. It has been painted. Other precinct quarters which have been made enticing are the second of the Fourth ward, fifth of the Fourth ward, and tenth of the Second ward.

There will be new classes for wardens and first aid workers in the Christian church, First ward, on Thursday night. On Monday night there will be a new class in demolition and repair work in the City building.

Push Plans For Scrap Salvage

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10. — National directors of the institute of iron and steel scrap were confident today that they would be able to break the backbone of the scrap shortage that threatens the nation's flow of steel and munitions of war.

After a long meeting in Pittsburgh, attended by 28 of the institute's 30 leaders, E. C. Barringer, president and executive secretary, predicted flatly that "we're going to lick this thing." He added:

"Every director who attended the meeting is going to carry the word back to his section of the industry that we've got to double and triple scrap collections for the next few months.

"The scrap is there. The problem that faces us is getting it collected, processed and onto the scrap piles of the nation's steel mills."

One of the many plans that will be used to yield more scrap will be the salvaging of sunken ships along both coasts, with War Materials, Inc., a new federal agency, absorbing the excess costs. They want more collectors too, to rove from door to door, like the old-fashioned "junk man," and pick up the odds and ends lying around in almost every cellar and yard.

Joseph Sold Into Slavery

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Joseph sold into Egypt

"Love envieth not."—I Corinthians 13:4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for September 13 is Genesis 37, 39-41, the Golden Text being I Corinthians 13:4, "Love envieth not.")

Of all his sons, Jacob loved best Joseph, Rachel's older son. The younger was Benjamin, and Rachel died when he was born. Jacob had 12 sons in all. When Joseph was 17 years old his father made him a coat of many colors, probably a tunic reaching to his ankles and with long sleeves, which were worn by the children of wealthy people.

As usual in families where a parent favors one child over the others, Joseph's brothers envied and disliked him. Joseph did not help matters by bringing his father evil reports of his brothers. Then, too, Joseph told his brothers of two dreams he had. In the first one they were binding sheaves in the fields, and Joseph's sheaf stood upright and the others stood and bowed down to it. In the second the sun and moon and 11 stars made obeisance to him.

Shortly after this the brothers went to feed Jacob's flocks in Schechem, 60 miles away. After they had been gone some time, Jacob sent Joseph to find them and to bring him a report as to their well-being.

When his brothers saw him coming they thought that at last they had him at their mercy.

Plan To Kill Joseph

They decided to kill Joseph and tell their father a wild beast had slain him. Reuben, Jacob's oldest son, however, persuaded them not to kill him, but to throw him into a pit, which was probably a deep hole made to hold water for cattle in the dry season. Reuben thought if they put him in the pit he could come later, pull him out and take him to their father.

The brothers agreed to this, but when they saw some Egyptian traders coming, they sold him to them as a slave. Later, when Reuben went to rescue Joseph, he found he was gone, whereon he "rent his clothes." The brothers then killed a goat and dipped Joseph's coat in its blood, and took it to their father.

Poor Jacob recognized the coat, concluded that Joseph had been killed while on his errand, and mourned for his son and would not be comforted.

In the meantime the Midianites, who had bought Joseph, sold him to Potiphar, Pharaoh's captain of the guard. Very soon Joseph's master realized that he had a very able and efficient young man in Joseph, and made him overseer over his house and all that he had. Joseph prospered exceedingly, but an unfortunate thing happened to him. His master's wife was not a good woman, and she liked Joseph very much and wanted him to love her. Joseph refused to have anything to do with her. This made her angry, and one day she caught hold of his cloak, and when he pulled away from her, the cloak was left in her hands. Then this wicked woman told her husband Joseph had been wooing her and when she resisted him he ran away, leaving his garment in her room.

Joseph Is Put In Prison

Whether Potiphar believed her or not we do not know, but he put Joseph in prison, where he remained for two years. Thrown into prison soon after were Pharaoh's head butler and head baker. Each of these men had a queer dream while there and told Joseph about it. The butler dreamed that he held three branches in his hand, that they budded and blossomed and grapes came from them which he squeezed into Pharaoh's cup. Joseph told him that in three days he would be restored to Pharaoh's favor and his job. The baker said he dreamed that he had three white baskets on his head full of baked goods, but that birds came and ate them out of the basket. Joseph said the dream meant that in three days he would be hanged from a tree and the birds should eat his flesh. Both prophesies came true.

Joseph had asked the butler to remember him in prison when he should be restored to favor, but the butler forgot him for a long time. Then one night Pharaoh had a dream that he stood by the river Nile and out of it came seven fat kine and fed in the meadow. Seven lean, starved kine came after them, and the last seven ate the first. Pharaoh awaked, but he slept again and dreamed that he saw seven ears of corn upon one stalk that were full and good, and seven thin and blasted ears sprang up after them and devoured them.

In the morning his "spirit was troubled," and he sent for his magicians and wise men and asked them to interpret the dreams to him, but they could not. Then the head butler remembered Joseph, and told Pharaoh about him, whereupon he was released from prison and appeared before the Pharaoh.

Pharaoh told Joseph the dreams and Joseph told him that the dreams were two versions of one dream. That the seven good kine and the seven full ears of corn were seven good years of plentiful harvests in Egypt, and the seven lean, ill-favored kine and the seven poor ears of corn that devoured the well-favored ones were years of famine to follow, when all the plentiful harvests should be eaten. Joseph said it was a warning from God. He also advised Pharaoh to appoint a good and wise man to set over the land and to take a fifth part of the harvest in those seven good years and store it for the seven years of famine following, so that the people of the land would not starve.

Pharaoh was pleased, and said to his servants, "Can we find such a one as this is, a man in whom is the spirit of God?" And he appointed Joseph as head of Egypt next only to him, and Pharaoh took a ring off his finger and put it on Joseph's, and "arrayed him in vestures of fine linen and put a gold chain about his neck."

Gen. MacArthur Talks To Troops

'Kill At Least One Japanese" Is Urge Of General To U. S. Soldiers

(International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Sept. 10.—The will to win is worth three times as much to a soldier as equipment and training, General Douglas MacArthur told his troops, but in their ears today his request that they each kill a Japanese rang loudest.

"All I ask of you," said the hero of the Philippines in the course of his talk, "is that each of you kill at least one Japanese."

In a soldier, the general asserted, you will find that the psychological factor outweighs three times the material factor. If a man has fighting courage, he will win, despite poor equipment and training, General MacArthur said.

These observations, he continued, were made in the Philippines campaign where the fellow who always won was the one who fought to the end, whose nerves didn't fail and who had nothing but the will to victory.

The Japanese, General MacArthur pointed out, are the greatest exploiters of an inefficient opposing army the world has ever seen.

Despite their overwhelming numbers, the Japs were confused frequently in the Philippines, the general recalled, because the American-Filipino forces pushed forward rather than fell back promptly as the Japs expected.

Escaped Lifer Retaken After 18 Long Years

Arrest Is Made In New York —Fugitive Married And Holding Good Job

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A ghost he thought had been laid to rest 18 long years ago rose out of the past today to pluck a 50-year-old "model father" out of his home and place him in the shadow of prison for the remainder of his life.

At 1 a. m. today, when sleep hung heavy over the peaceful Inwood section of Manhattan, the door bell rang at the home of Osmund Westgate, $115-a-week electrical goods salesman.

Westgate, a sandy-haired, bespectacled man, came to the door. In the bedrooms behind him slept his wife and eight-year-old son.

Police Detectives James Cully and James O'Keefe calmly inquired:

"Are you Osmund Westgate?"

Westgate nodded.

"You're under arrest," Cully told him. "You're wanted as a fugitive from justice for escaping from Joliet prison in 1924 where you were serving a life sentence for robbery."

Then everything was confusion.

Mrs. Westgate, who knew nothing of her husband's past, was awakened. She stood in amazement as the two detectives showed her a telegram from Warren Stubblefield of Joliet, naming Westgate as the escaped lifer and declaring Illinois will immediately institute extradition proceedings.

First indication of Westgate's past came when his fingerprints, taken to permit his continuance as a salesman of strategic war material, were checked by the FBI and the bureau of criminal identification here.

Both discovered there was a "wanted" card for him, and that one Osmund Westgate had escaped Oct. 1924, after serving 14 years of a life sentence given him as a second offender.

Under Illinois law, a second conviction for robbery makes a life sentence mandatory.

Rubber Probe Report Is Made

Baruch Committee Recommends Nation-Wide Gasoline Rationing

SOME INCREASE IN RETREADS URGED

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The Baruch rubber investigating committee today recommended to President Roosevelt a program of nation-wide gasoline rationing, sweeping changes in the rubber program and "a complete reorganization and consolidation" of governmental agencies and other rigid domestic controls.

At the same time, the committee called for increases in the synthetic rubber production program to bring it up to 1,100,000 tons annually. The report was made public when it was sent to Congress by the president.

The president's investigators, Bernard Baruch, Dr. James B. Conant of Harvard University and Dr. Karl F. Compton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, advised the president that there should be "no further substitutions in the plans now laid down" for synthetic rubber production.

The committee recommended the following five point program of rubber rationing:

1. A reduction to 5,000 miles per year of average mileages through nation-wide rationing of gasoline.
2. Enlargement of present tire replacement program to provide sufficient recaps and new tires to maintain this minimum of essential driving and to prolong useful life of tires now on the road.
3. "Prompt and strict" enforcement of a nation-wide 35 mile per hour speed limit for all passenger cars and trucks. Voluntary reduction to 30 miles, the committee emphasized, will give substantially further mileage.
4. Compulsory periodic tire inspection.
5. An interim program of voluntary tire conservation until the rationing and inspection programs can be put into operation.

In a brief statement commenting upon the recommendations President Roosevelt said "It is an excellent report" and "will be put into effect as rapidly as arrangements can be made."

Standards change, but the "best families" are always the ones that can live well and stand high without paying what they owe.

Museum Pieces From Former Wars Provide Much Scrap Metal

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The war department today announced that the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., has contributed 11,250,000 pounds of scrap metal—ranging from an ornamental cannon ball to a 42-ton tank—to the army's all-out conservation and salvage program.

Museum items which were kept on display at the proving ground in portrayal of the evolution of modern artillery have all been added to the salvage pile. These include cannon balls that were made during the Civil War and earlier in the 19th century.

In the old balloon hangar at the proving ground, museum pieces such as old French and Italian automotive equipment from the first World War ware broken up. Guns that formerly were in the hands of Russian, German, Austrian, French and Italian troops also were added to the heap. Various types of American equipment, dating back to 1898, completed the hangar yield.

Workmen are now moving the 42 centimeter German howitzer that was used to level the forts of Belgium in 1914.

Almost 1,000,000 pounds of scrap were obtained by smashing 30 tanks parked in the field museum. Included was one big, lumbering German 42-tonner, which, with a speed of eight miles an hour, was considered the fastest tank in the World War No. 1.

Other items included 95 240 millimeter howitzers built for American troops in 1918, which never fired a shot.

Five Join Army As Specialists

Two Brothers Join; Three Of Five From New Castle, It Is Announced

ARMY IN NEED OF SPECIALISTS

Five young men have joined the U. S. army, two of them brothers from this city. Every one of them signed as a specialist, according to U. S. Recruiter Sergeant John T. Bilpuch.

The brothers are Joseph F. and Antony P. Stoner of 1713 Pennsylvania avenue. Both enlisted as auto mechanic specialists in the army air corps. They are sons of William Stoner.

The other three who enlisted are: William J. Richards, son of Albert A. Richards, 114 West Grant street, aircraft armorer, air corps.

John A. Hogan, Mercer R. D. 4, welder, air corps.

Lewis G. Davis, 660 High street, Sharon, welder, air corps.

"The foregoing named men will fight the Axis with the kind of tools they worked with in civilian life," the recruiting officer stated.

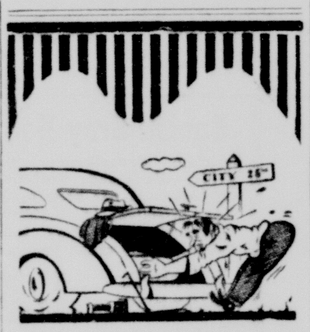

"These will be some of the men who will keep our planes flying and our tanks, trucks and jeeps rolling.

Organizations To Help

"You can do the same," the sergeant advised the eligible young men of this vicinity. If you are a specialist in any trade or work, why not put your efforts and tools to work against the Axis?

"Don't delay, the army needs you," Sergeant Bilpuch asserted.

The sergeant also stated that he is preparing to provide various organizations with informative literature to spur army enlistments because specialists in all lines are needed. The organizations which will participate in the campaign for army recruits are the Moose, Eagles, Elks, McBride and Neshannock posts of the V. F. W., American Legion and Legion of Honor.

Beauty Contest Now In Progress

U. S. Army Air Trainees Make Up Big Part Of Atlantic City Audience

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—U. S. army air trainees who have "taken over" this resort and many of its beach-front hotels, today looked forward to the second in the series of elimination contests in the annual beauty pageant for selection of Miss America of 1942.

Last night's exhibition and judging, attended by a crowd in which military khaki was in predominance, was the noisiest by far of any held in recent years.

Equipped with whistles and mechanical noise-makers, the soldiers lustily voiced approval as one after another of 30 comely, curvaceous and talented entrants paraded "their stuff" before judges.

Three tests must be passed by the contestants—talent, charm in wearing the latest creations of fashion, and beauty of face and figure as revealed in a bathing suit, one-third of the entrants nightly compete in one of the three classes.

As might be expected, the most popular of the classes in last night's judging was the exhibition of the half-score who competed in the swimsuit section. Lusty male cheers greeted the judges' selection of "Miss Birmingham", 18-year-old blonde Lucille Duncan, as the winner.

"Miss New York City" won the talent contest with a rendition of "My Hero". Brunette and also 18, she is Annyse Diane Sherman.

Last night's winners and those selected tonight and tomorrow night will enter the final competition on Saturday.

Set 65 Degrees As Maximum For Home Heat

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Thermal units and radiation equivalents may be Greek to the average homeowner but if he lives on the eastern seaboard and heats his house with oil, it all adds up to 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

This, the Office of Price Administration has decided, will be the maximum temperature basis for rationing of fuel to private residences. Local weather conditions, size of the house and other factors will be taken into consideration in calculating just how many gallons of the liquid gold may be allotted to each home owner to maintain the 65-degree temperature.

Rickenbacker Opposes Plan Of Huge Planes

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's World War I ace, today voiced objections to Henry J. Kaiser's plan of building giant air freighters.

Arguing that such flying boats would not be worth the cost or the diversion of valuable materials from other war production, Rickenbacker added:

"I have the highest regard for Mr. Kaisers' ability, and I do not doubt that he can build such planes. But it would be five years before they are flyable."

Kaiser Says He Could Turn Out Giant Planes

Mass Production Of Giant Cargo Planes Is Possible Says "Miracle Builder"

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Henry J. Kaiser, the "miracle builder" of dams, ships, magnesium and steel plants, today declared that he could turn one of his shipyards into an assembly line 6,000 feet long for the mass production of giant cargo airplanes to carry supplies to American fighting forces on all fronts of the world.

Kaiser, storm center of a controversy over whether shipyards actually could be used to build super cargo aircraft, came to Washingotn to confer with Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, and to face a showdown with army and navy officials over whether he can build the types of ships he claims he can on such a large scale.

He conferred with Nelson for more than an hour yesterday, and planned to see him and possibly army and navy authorities again during the next few days.

Both Nelson and Kaiser, apparently agreeing on the kind of statement they would issue, declared that Kaiser's plan to build giant planes would be followed through "to its logical conclusion". Kaiser has formed a working alliance with Howard Hughes, famous flyer, and aircraft designer.

Kaiser, at a press conference, declared that his proposed planes would "follow conventional design" and use motors now being turned out in large quantities in the United States. Although he indicated that he could work out an advanced design, Kaiser said:

"We are out to win the war and have got to build as quickly as we can. For that reason, we will follow conventional design."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste matter out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Heroism Shown In Fire At Sea

Additional Tales Are Revealed By Survivors Of Damaged Naval Transport

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Additional tales of heroism were related today as survivors of the U. S. S. Wakefield—formerly the SS Manhattan—continued to tell of what might well go down in history as one of the outstanding rescues at sea.

Not only were the 650 officers and crew members of the former luxury liner praised for their consideration of the passengers' welfare and valiant efforts to save the ship, but personnel of escorting warships who effected the rescues under great personal danger were lauded equally.

Typical of the determination of U. S. navy men was the story told by one of the passengers, Robert Crabtree of Pawtucket, R. I., who related how the unidentified commander of one of the destroyers effecting the rescue held his warcraft alongside the endangered vessel despite the fact that the bridge was being smashed beneath his feet as long, lifting swells banged the destroyer against the side of the Wakefield.

"I never saw such work in my life," Crabtree declared. "It was the greatest exhibition of courage and devotion to duty I ever witnessed."

He said he was especially thrilled when the destroyer commander, advised that the bridge was cracking up beneath him, snapped: "To hell with the bridge—hold her in."

Ever since men went down to sea in ships, fire at sea has been one of the greatest fears of sailors. But officers and crew members of the Wakefield made every possible effort and more to save their ship in the face of an impossible situation.

Approximately 75 percent of the feature motion picture films shown in Panama are imported from the United States, according to the Department of Commerce.

HEAVY STUDENT AID

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Approximately 500 students, compromising forty per cent of Brown University undergraduates, have received $174,000 in schloraships, loans and student service during the year 1941-42, Dean Samuel T. Arnold announced. The stepped up assistance to students is in pursuance of a policy to insure a continuous flow of trained leaders and specialists for the war effort, Dean Arnold stated.

The most effective war poster would be an enlarged picture of our Corregidor heroes, marching with their hands up, guarded by grinning Japs.

NEW PHOTOS SHOW MIDWAY DEFENDERS IN ACTION

Defenders of Midway island are pictured above in action against the Japs during the height of the battle when the enemy attempted to capture the American base west of Hawaii in June. These new photos have just been released by the Navy department. Interior of one of the hangars is shown, top left, after it had been burned out following the attack by Jap planes on the island. A general view showing a damaged building, foreground, and a fire in the distance is shown, lower left. The attack came so early in the morning that the Stars and Stripes had not yet been raised, so soldiers raised them, right, while the attack was in progress. (Official U. S. Navy Photos)

Navy Planes in Midway Battle

This photograph, made at the height of the Midway battle, has just been released by the Navy Department. It shows U. S. Navy planes getting ready to bomb part of the Jap invasion fleet below. Smoke trails from one Jap ship on which a direct hit has been made. This picture is from the official U. S. Navy film of the large scale sea-air engagement. (Central Press)

After Jap Bombs Hit Midway Island Oil Wells

This picture was made by the Navy at the height of the three-day Midway Island battle. It shows oil tanks on the island on fire, the result of attacks by Jap bombers. Note the peaceful Gooney birds in the foreground. During this battle, U. S. air and sea forces sent four Jap carriers, two heavy cruisers, three destroyers and eleven other enemy ships to the bottom. The Japs lost 4,880 sailors and airmen; U. S. losses were 307 men killed or missing. This is an official U. S. Navy photo. (Central Press)

Look at That Pistol Fly!

This extraordinary photograph of how to disarm an opponent was taken at Paine Field, Wash., during a demonstration of commando tactics. First Lieut. D. I. Cady sends Corp. James Pearche's revolver flying through the air with a "tap" on the wrist. Of course, the wrist was a little numb for a while afterwards. (Central Press)

Bombing An Axis Ship in Mediterranean

Here's a close one! A British Sunderland Flying Boat drops a bomb near the bow of an Axis supply ship somewhere in the Mediterranean. The closeup view was taken by the photographer in the flying boat as it flew low in its effort to finish off the merchantman which was on its way to Rommel's forces with supplies. (Central Press)

MUSIC'S CHARMS OUTDONE HERE

Music's charms are overwhelmed by those of beauty in this picture of four candidates for the crown of Miss America in the pageant of talent and beauty now in progress in Atlantic City, N. J. Miss California (Lucille Lambert) is at the keys. The trio atop the piano are, left to right, Miss Texas (Jo-Carroll Dennison), Miss Atlantic City (Peggy Maley) and Miss Chicago (Bette Brunk).

Teams With Kaiser

Howard Hughes, above, film producer, airplane designer and flyer, has joined Henry J. Kaiser, Pacific joined shipbuilder, in a program to construct 500 giant cargo planes "larger than the B-19."

Gets Commission

Orchestra Leader Wayne King, above, has been commissioned as a captain in the Army Specialist Corps.

Hedy Shares Worker's Lunch

During a lunch hour tour of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, glamorous Hedy Lamarr was offered a bite at a two-inch thick sandwich by shipfitter Richard Spencer. She opened her mouth wide and, to the amazement of her audience, bit off a chunk that would have done justice to a riveter. Spencer then put the sandwich back in the paper and announced to his cheering co-workers, "I'm saving it for posterity." This is an official U. S. Navy photo. (Central Press)

Too Close for Comfort

There must have been a flock of four-leaf clovers aboard this British Bren gun carrier on the Egyptian front. An Axis shell lets go with a roar only a few yards in front of the vehicle on the southern end of the El Alamein line, where Rommel made several unsuccessful attempts to break through last week. The driver of the carrier was caught by the lens as he ducked when the shell let go.

SCREEN IDOL TOUGHENS UP

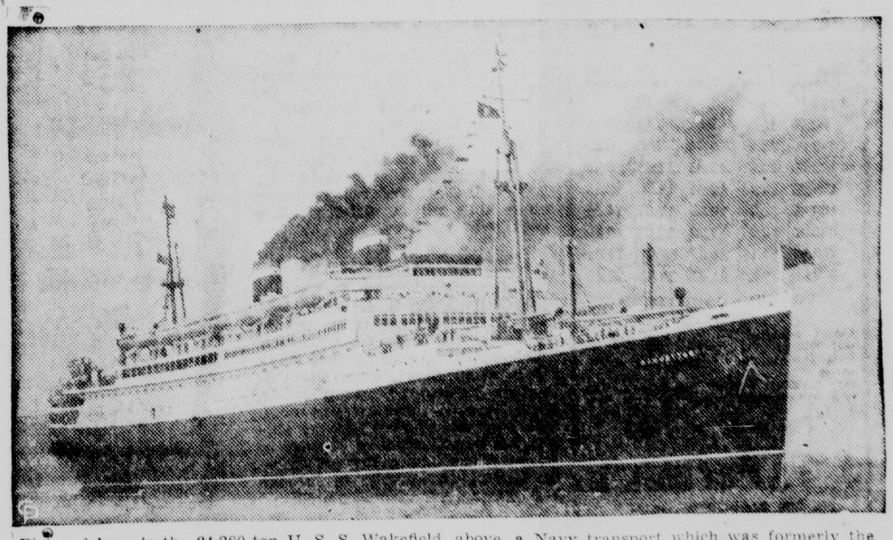

Clark Gable, who was starred on the screen as a "he-man," is being toughened up even more these days at the United States Army Air Forces' officers' training school in Miami, Fla. Gable, a corporal, is shown, top right, rounding a turn with fellow trainees on the broad running track at the school.

SYMBOLIC MALTESE CROSS BRAVES BOMBS OFF MALTA

Tifereth Israel Services Planned For Rosh Hashanah

Three Days Of Services Planned In Observance Of Jewish New Year

Rosh Hashanah (Jewish New Year) will be ushered in by Jews the world over this coming Friday evening at sunset. Rosh Hashanah is the commencement of the penitential season in the Jewish liturgy.

This season is of 10-day duration, from the first day of Rosh Hashanah to the Day of Atonement which occurs 10 days later. The high holy day season commencing with Rosh Hashanah is designated as a season of searching the soul.

Special prayers will be offered during this season; especially this year when the world is engulfed in war and when democracy is endangered, there will be special prayers conducted for the success of the American and United Nations armed forces who fight on land, sea and in the air to retain their freedom and the happiness of the human race.

At the Tifereth Israel Synagogue services will be in charge of Rabbi Gilbert A. Elefant. On Friday evening at 7 o'clock Rabbi Elefant will be assisted by the Hebrew school choir. Saturday morning services will begin at 7:30 o'clock with the rabbi's sermon theme to be "A Day of Judgment." Saturday afternoon services will start at 6 o'clock.

Sunday morning services will be at 8 o'clock and the special feature will be the sounding of the Shofar. A sermon will also be preached on the topic, "The Day of Memorial." Sunday afternoon services are scheduled for 5 o'clock.

NOTES REPLACE COINS

SUVA, Fiji.—Because of an acute silver shortage in Fiji, government officials have placed in circulation one and two shilling notes, instead of coins.

The silver shortage is a phenomena of World War II, caused not only by reduced shipping in the South Pacific, but by jewelers and silversmiths turning coins into jewelry and souvenirs.

Our public manners tell whether we are 130 million free citizens or at heart 130 million dictators.

TEACHER HONORED

C. Raymond Shannon, teacher for a number years of the Young Men's Bible class of the Rocky Spring United Presbyterian church, was honored at surprise party on the anniversary of his birthday, last Wednesday evening.

The guests, members of the three senior adult classes of the Bible School, had assembled in the basement of the church when the honor guest, Mr. Shannon arrived to attend a special meeting by request and to find to his surprise that the meeting was a well planned birthday party in his honor.

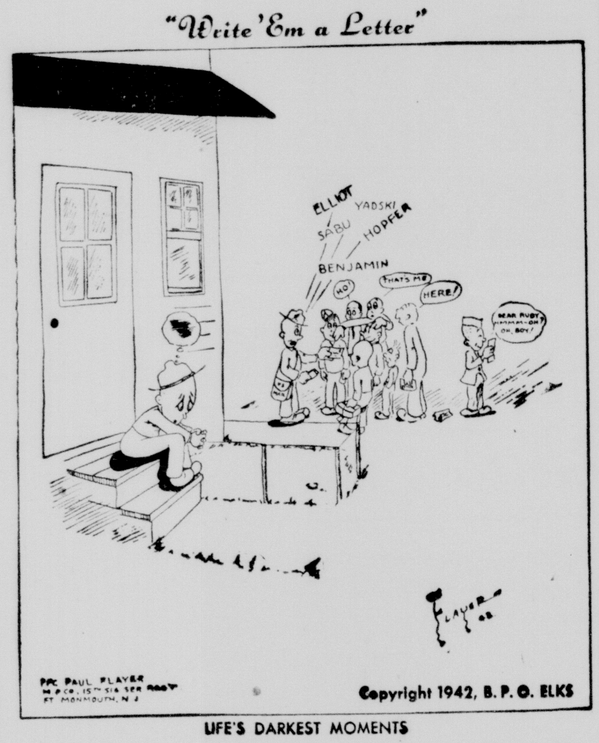

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Mike Duignan, of R. F. D. Enon Valley.

James Beatty served as toastmaster. Group singing, a number of Bible songs, prayer by Clyde Rhodes, followed by brief talks from each member of class taught by Mr. Shannon.

W. A. Scott, president of the class, presented their teacher in behalf of the class members, at attractive desk lamp with sincere best wishes for many more happy returns of the day.

Delicious lunch was served, a large birthday cake topped with miniature candles was the most attractive and tasty centerpiece on the table with appointments suggestive for a birthday anniversary.

Bill's a bigger man than his dad was in '17

WAR DEPARTMENT figures show that today's average soldier is nearly an inch taller and ten pounds heavier than in 1917.

That's a great gain for one generation—and a real tribute to the men of science and the men of industry who helped build Bill's husky frame. We're glad the electric industry had a hand in it.

While food experts were discovering new vitamins and better diets for Bill, electric research was working out ways to refrigerate his food so it would be fresher, safer, cheaper.

While doctors were developing new serums, drugs and healing techniques, electric laboratories were improving X-rays, diathermy lamps, electric knives.

Even before Bill was born, electric servants freed his mother from much of the work of washing, cleaning, cooking and sewing—so that she and her children could be healthier and happier.

Actually, these advances can be credited to the American Way at work—free men creating and producing the things that other men want and need—for everybody's benefit. The electric industry grew that way. A few men organized a company. Many men invested their savings. Good business management under Government regulation multiplied jobs, extended service, lowered rates.

Today our customers buy electricity at prices that compare favorably with any in the state. These prices are now about half what they used to be. Now our customers use three times the amount of electricity as, say, in 1922, but there has been a 46% drop in the average price of per kilowatt hour since that time.

NEW CASTLE NEWS

HOW ABOUT IT!—Young Jimmy Conzelman, Jr., son of Chicago Cardinal pro football team coach, asks dad some grid questions.

New Castle High Opens Season Friday Night

Four County Teams In Action On Friday

New Castle, Ellwood City, Shenango And Union Township Cross Stripes

SHENANGO, UNION AWAY FROM HOME

While New Castle high is hoisting its 1942 football banner Friday night, Shenango Township already will have teed-off and Union Township high will be matching wits with Ellwood City high.

These three clashes send another local football caravan rolling into high gear.

Shenango Township, eager to start with a victory, leaves the county early Friday to face Evans City high. Its grid ranks thinned out by graduation, the East New Castle high gallery is banking on a number of recruits to win a second straight County Class B title.

Coach Eddie Nahas today pronounced his corps in fine early season condition. The team is rather large for Class B, he said.

Coach W. T. Patterson, who inherited the Union Township berth after John Susko resigned to accept an assistant coaching post at East Liverpool high, faces a mastodonic task.

He literally took the job on a minute's notice and thus was not prepared to delve into the pigskin game.

In bucking up against the "Wolverines," Union encounters an aggregation that is well-poised, blessed with mobility and talent. Ellwood downed Zelienople last week, 19-0.

The night setto, billed for Lincoln field, Ellwood City, starts at 8:15 o'clock.

Bessemer, Lawrence county's third Class B team, faces Greenville on September 19.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Winter boxing plans will be discussed within the next few days. There are not many amateurs locally left and it will be necessary to draw upon other cities to round out cards. . . . Football will be highly unpredicable this season because as many as a score gridders have been called to military service from some college aggregations.

Sergeant Joe Louis and Private Billy Conn have been given furloughs to train for their October 12 world's heavyweight title fight. In commenting on his condition Louis said he was in better shape now than before any other fight he has had. Conn has taken on weight and should weigh 180 or more ring day.

Dr. Carl P. Scott, director of Penn State athletics, stated today that eligibility of first year men for varsity competition probably would be decided this week. . . . Charles J. Moore, formerly of Coraopolis, has been named floor cocah at Butler high. He is a graduate of Slippery Rock Teachers and took post graduate work at Pitt.

Tommy Yarosz, Monaca middleweight, has entered the signal corps and is at Camp Meade. An ardent pigeon fancier, Yarsoz has been given a corporal's rating. . . . More than $4,000,000 passed through the matuel maws at New York, Chicago and Camden. . . . Joe Bach, one of the seven mules of Notre Dame of 1924, has been named coach of the Fort Knox football team.

Tommy (Leach) Pagley has received a postal card from his son, Buster, stating he has arrived safely at his destination.

Bukowski To Meet Segedi For Title

Slippery Rock State Teachers College Ace In County Golf Finals

Stan Bukowski, ace of Slippery Rock State Teachers college golf team last spring, advanced to the finals in the county championship tournament, which has been on at Sylvan Heights course for the past three weeks, by defeating Anthony Latiano of Ellwood City, 2 up, yesterday.

Bukowski will meet Martin Segedi, last year's champion, who fought his way through a tough field to again advance to the final spot. The playoff will probably not take place until next week, due to working conditions, both players being busily engaged in war industries.

IDEA O.K.

There is a nine-hole golf course at Camp Forrest. It didn't cost a cent. It was built by volunteer labor.

Taggart Stadium Scene Of Combat

John Zubkowsky, Tall Wingman, Hurt; Game To Start At 8:15 O'Clock

"CANES" WINDUP DRILLS TONIGHT

Their spirits undaunted by news that John Zubkowsky, left end, may not start due to a left elbow injury, New Castle High's gridders dashed through a snappy session Wednesday at Taggart stadium in preparation for Friday's curtain hoister with Butler here at 8:15 o'clock.

In Tuesday's scrimmage, the tall wingman fell on the elbow. By yesterday, the joint had swollen to the size of a baseball. Assistant Coach William "Bill" Klee immediately put "Zub" under the sun lamp while he started searching for a brace.

Unless the elbow responds to treatment, there is a strong possibility that the athlete will watch the opener from the bench.

Stress Pass Defense

Figuring that Butler will fill the sky with aerial bombs, Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh stressed pass defense during most of the drill. With "Landy" Lauro, ex-high star, and several other members of the squad flipping the ball, the varsity looked impressive in smashing down passes.

A brisk signal drill completed the next to last workout.

Tonight, the "Hurricane" warriors get a taste of night football. Under the Cunningham avenue stadium bulbs, Coach Bridenbaugh will order his proteges through a light workout designed to introduce the boys to the nocturnal game.

With Zubkowsky a doubt starter, the starting lineup may be something like this:

Gunn and Burris at ends; Roussos and Sanfilippo, tackles; Razzano and Joseph, guards, and Genkinger, center. In the backfield, Lee and Russ Currie at halfbacks, Pete Tedesko, quarterback, and Brothers, fullback.

New Castle's line is hefty, topped of by Mike Roussos who scales close to 210. The backfield is well-balanced and is studded with height, speed and weight.

Butler Experienced

Butler High, which dropped a 25-0 decision to the locals last year, invades the city with an experienced personnel headed by Fullback Ianotti. Madden and Domke, who started the '41 tussle, are back. Hilliard, Bennetti, Maffei, Diamond, Kerr and DeFoggi were second stringers last year and saw actual combat against the "Canes."

Coach Regis Heinzer says he has a line averaging about 163 pounds. The backs average 149. The boys up front are "green," the visiting coach reports.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner today stated that a staff of approximately 100 men and students will be on hand to accommodate the opening night crowd. Gates will be opened at 6:30 o'clock while the adult ticket gates will be unlocked at 7 o'clock.

Ticket Manager Robert Mills today briefly outlined the seating arrangements.

Holders of stadium reserved seats are requested to enter through the No. 1 gate, known as the main entrance on DuShane street.

All complimentary tickets will be honored at No. 2, on the southern end of the stadium, near the Ben Franklin machine shop.

All New Castle students will be admitted at No. 6 and 7 gates, at the north end of the stadium.

The "kiddies" section, at the northern end of the stadium, will be operated from the Division street gate.

All general admission ticket holders for bleacher and visiting student seats are requested to enter the Cunningham avenue entrance known as Gate 3.

Stadium reserved ducats sell for 55 cents. Other adult general admissions are worth 55 cents, Mills said.

BUCCOS PURCHASE CATCHER WARREN

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10—Catcher Ben Warren donned the regalia of the Pittsburgh Pirates today prepared to see action against his former teammates, the Phils, in a doubleheader at Shibe Park.

The Phils sold the 30-year-old backstop to the Bucs at the waiver price of $7500. Warren, a right-hander, became the Phils regular catcher in 1940 when he clouted the ball at a .246 clip in his major league debut.

Sylvan Heights Course Is Ready For Biggest Day

Many Attractions Will Be Offered At City Course Sunday

THREE IMPORTANT MATCHES ON TAP

HON. CHARLES MATTHEWS, JR. To be speaker at golf league dinner.

Sylvan Heights course golfers are looking forward to one of the biggest days in the history of the course, Sunday, when a variety of attractions will be offered those interested in the ancient Scotch game, which will wind up with the annual dinner, formally bringing the league activities to a close, it was announced today by President Geno Veri of the golf league, and Sam Haycock, course manager. The principal speaker at the dinner will be Hon. Charles Matthews, Jr., former judge of the county courts.

There will be three big golfing events.

One of these will be the appearance of Mrs. Thomas (Freda) Nolan, West Penn champion, who recently captured this honor for the third time in four years of competition, a record which has not been exceeded previously, and equalled but once. In the foursome will be Miss Mary Lou Cleland of the Field club, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Cleland, one of the fine young golfers of the city; and Martin Segedi, county champion of last year, and a leading contender again this year through his recent defeat of Ted Lach, which put Segedi in the finals; and Joe Smith, of Ellwood City, second flight champion in this year's competition.

Then there will be the special match which will see Fred Broad, of Castle Hills course; C. Ed. Smith, Jr., of the Field club, and Herman "Hackett" Kennedy, of Sylvan Heights, who will finish their match for $50 in defense bonds arranged as a means of stimulating interest in the sale of Uncle Sam's securities to help finance the war.

Last, but not least in the golfing competition, will be the match between Shenango Pottery and New Castle Moose, who will play an 18-hole match for the Sylvan Heights league championship. They are the same finalists who contested last year, the Moose team winning the title, after the potters had captured the first half flag.

The day's activities will be wound up with a dinner for the golf league members and their friends, which will be served at 6 o'clock in the clubhouse, with Hon. Charles Matthews, Jr., as the principal speaker. Judge Matthews is an ardent golfer and a great friend of the Sylvan Heights golfers. The toastmaster will be Joe Smith, of Ellwood City. President Geno Veri announces, who states that all arrangements are complete for the big day.

Tickets for the dinner have been placed in the hands of the team captains, who have been asked to make a final report by Friday of this week.

Yanks Edge Closer To Sixth A. L. Toga

Rout Brownies, 8-3, As Bonham Nabs 19th Win; Cleveland Loses

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—The World Champion New York Yankees are within a thumb's length of clinching their sixth American league pennant in the last seven years, but just who will oppose them in the impending world series is a matter that will probably not be settled for at least a week or 10 days.

The men of Joe McCarthy, by virtue of an 8 to 3 win over the Browns in St. Louis yesterday, can now win the flag in their circuit by any combination of five wins and as many Boston Red Sox defeats.

Yesterday behind the fine pitching of Ernie Bonham who gathered in his 19th victory of the year, the New Yorkers pulled 10 full games in front of the pack. A homer by Joe Gordon with the bases filled in the first inning gave Bonham all the runs he needed.

Cards Face Giants

The St. Louis Cardinals, who were to meet the Giants in a single game at the Polo grounds were only one of the many teams cancelled and will try again today with Howie Pollet slated to hurl against King Carl Hubbell while the Dodgers, with Kirby Higbie ready for action, will attempt to remain three full games on top by whipping the Chicago Cubs in a single contest at Ebbets field. The veteran Lon Warneke is slated to go to the hill for the boys from the Windy City.

In other games today Cincinnati will play two with Boston while the Pirates engage the Phillies in a double-header at Philadelphia.

The American league's attractions will consist of a twin bill between the Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox at Chicago and single games between the Yankees and Brown at St. Louis and Boston and Detroit on the latter's field. The A's and the Cleveland Indians are not scheduled.

The night game between the Athletics and the Indians, the only other contest played yesterady, went 13 innings with Phil Marchildon chalking up his seventeenth victory of the season. The final score was 5 to 4 in favor of the Philadelphians.

Marchildon relieved Bob Harris in the ninth and pitched no-hit ball for five innings.

The deciding run was a walk to Elmer Valo, a single by Bob Johnson and a fly by Dick Siebert.

HE'S RIGHT

LONDON—"Cam" C. E. Malfroy, famed New Zealand Wimbledon tennis star, today still retains that aggressive fighting spirit which thrilled thousands of tennis fans both in America and Britain in prewar days.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

What's new in sports today?

Well, for one thing, Benny Ciccone, down to 210 pounds, is still hanging on with the Chicago Cardinals and apparently doing quite well. His brother, Willie, had to give up on account of Uncle Sam who wants him soon.

Taking it philosophically, Willie was telling me, while watching New Castle high scrimmage the other day, that opportunities sometimes "come in bunches but at the wrong time."

Almost a cinch to stick with the professional club at a rather fancy price, Willie had at least three coaching jobs (high schools) literally tossed into his hat about a week ago. "I'm ready to play a more important game, so good-bye opportunities for the time being," he said smilingly.

There's another Ciccone, by the way, who may achieve greater prominence at New Castle high than either Willie or Benny. About 16 and weighing 160 or 165, Sam is trying his hand at center. He's a beaut for a sophomore.

William Monaca, who is known as "Tony" for some reason or other, will coach Verona high, near Pittsburgh. Monaca will be remembered as a member of those great Bridenbaugh machines of the mid-twenties.

In a card postmarked Lafayette, Ind., Chief Specialist Frank Nocera, ex-Shenango coach, states that he has been transferred from South Bend to Purdue university. Privates Leonard Turco and Louis Tommelleo peddle along greetings to the sports colony from Fort McClellan, Ala.

Joe Siegal, Columbia's great end and captain-elect, has quit to enroll in the Northwestern dental school in Evanston. . . Leo Durocher rested Larry French a dozen days so the portsider could face the Cards in St. Louis. What happened? He was blasted out of the park.

Condition and frame of mind will be a huge stumbling block for one N. L. pennant winner when the world series firing starts. While the Bums and Cards are pressing daily with everything they have, a strain that's bound to tell, the Yanks are merely moving along playing their schedule—waiting to mop up. Make mine the Yanks here and over there.

ZIVIC IS FAVORED TO WHIP COCHRANE IN GARDEN TONIGHT

Pittsburgh Miller 9-5 Hot Shot To Cop 10-reel Non-title Scrap

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Fritzie Zivic, a 9 to 5 favorite to whip Welterweight Champion Freddie (Red) Cochrane of the Navy, in their 10-round non-title bout tonight at Madison Square Garden, predicted today that he would stop the man to whom he dropped the title.

"I've been waiting 14 months to catch up with Cochrane," Zivic said. "He promised me a return bout after I lost my title to him a year ago last July. Then he ran out on me."

Cochrane was granted leave to meet Zivic for the benefit of the United Service organizations. Since winning the title, Cochrane has engaged in only three bouts, all of them non-title.

Zivic, on the other hand, has fought 18 times since the night in Jersey City when he lost the 147-pound crown in one of the biggest upsets in ring history.

Elders Battle Moose Friday

Elders and Moose clash in a City-Baseball league battle on Friday night at 6 o'clock on Marshall field, Scott street.

Tonight on Croton field, the Moose faces the strong Croton A. C., starting at 6 o'clock. By grabbing the Croton and Elder tilts, the Moose will be well on its way to making a clean sweep of the league title.

Wampum Nine Is 1-0 Winner Over Saints

Rex And Deweys Play 7-7 Tie In City-County Independent Play-offs

City-County Independent league followers got a generous helping of major league-like baseball last night.

At Wampum, Dombeck sparked Wampum to a 1-0 triumph over St. Margaret's in one of the two play-off games. The winning twirler yielded three hits while Lauro was more liberal giving up five bingles.

Score by innings:	R	H	E
Wampum .....000 001 x—1	5	1
Saints .....000 000 0—0	3	1

Batteries: Wampum — Dombeck and Mills; Saints—Lauro and Miron.

Nick Lucas, who serves as secretary of the circuit besides playing, was the standout performer at Marshall field where the Rex and Dewey A. C. battled to a 7-7 stall.

Lucas smashed a hit with the bases loaded and then proceeded to steal second, third and home in one of the most sensational base running episodes of the season.

Kearns was top man for the Rex with a triple. Dout shared honors with Lucas for the Deweys.

ARMY GAME TOPS

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—The Army game has taken its traditional first place in Notre Dame ticket sales, it was reported today by Ticket Manager Robert M. Cahill. The sale for the Michigan-Notre Dame game here November 14 led in early reports, but eastern returns have restored the cadet classic of November 7 to its accustomed ranking.

Ossof Is Named Titan Grid Captain

Oil City Athlete Replaces Captain-elect Zech, Now In Army

TED OSSOF

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept 10—Ted Ossof, Westminster college senior from Oil City, has been elected captain of the 1942 Titan football team. He was named to replace captain-elect Chalmers Zech, chosen last year but who was inducted into the Army last spring.

Tall, tough, and a good pass-retriever, Ossof has won two letters as an end on the varsity eleven. Last year, he was out all season after having fractured a wrist in a pre-game scrimmage.

An all-around athlete, Ossof has also won letters in basketball and in golf. He is a member of Block W, varsity men's club, and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

RANGY, AND HOW!

BATON ROUGE—All eight Louisiana State ends are more than six feet tall. They range from Jack Fulkerson's six feet five to Dilton Richmond's six one.

Here is the famous McGregor blend of wool and mohair with that imported look and feel! It's warm, it's light, and very expensive-looking despite its modest price. And, it's one of the finest all-around sweaters for a young man that we've ever seen. In sizes 28 to 38.

Dodgers Near Legion Title

Need One More Victory To Cinch Second-Half Title In Junior League

After winning the first half championship by playing a consistent brand of baseball, the Dean Park Dodgers of the American Legion Junior League, are but one game away from second half honors, as a result of their victory this week over the West Side Pirates, whom they defeated by a score of 4-1 on the Lee avenue field.

R. Liebendorfer was credited with a no-hitter in the seven-inning contest, but a few walks ruined a shutout for him. Martin and Miller led in the hitting for the winners with two apiece. One game remains to be played in the second half with the Gus' team, and if the Dodgers win this, it will assure them of the league title without a playoff. Their recent victory was the 12th of the second half.

Score by innings:	R	H	E
Dodgers .....370 000 0—	4	8	0
Pirates .....100 000 0—	1	0	3

Batteries: Dodgers, R. Liebendorfer and H. Liebendorfer; Pirates, Bobosky and Kelly.

Army All-Stars Spank Lions, 12-0

Emergency Relief Grid Clash In Detroit Nets About $30,000

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Sept. 10.—About $30,000 will be turned over to the Army Emergency Relief as the result of last night's football game in which the Western Army All-Stars defeated the Detroit Lions 12 to 0 in the University of Detroit Stadium.

A crowd of 21,499 paid approximately $40,000 to see the Army push over a touchdown in the second period and five more points in the last period. After expenses are paid, about $30,000 will be turned over to army relief, officials believed today.

The All-Stars touchdown came late in the second stanza when Kay Eakin whipped a pass to Bill Conaster which netted 52 yards and the score. Bill Dawson place-kicked the extra point.

Glenn E. Morris Joins U. S. Navy

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Sept. 10.—Uncle Sam's Navy today had another outstanding athlete—Glenn E. Morris, 30, world's Olympic decathlon champion in 1936, who enlisted as a chief specialist in the U. S. Naval Reserve to become a drill instructor in Commander Gene Tunney's physical fitness program.

Morris set a new world's record in winning the decathlon in Berlin, scoring 7,900 points, 20 more than the existing record.

He holds the 1936 James E. Sullivan memorial trophy, awarded annually to America's outstanding amateur athlete.

Slovaks A. C. Claim Forfeit Over Indies

In a letter to Commissioner C. A. Landolf, the Slovak A. C., contender for the second half City Baseball league, claims a forfeit over the Lawrence Indies.

George Latsko's letter states: "Slovaks won the game last night by a forfeit awarded them by Umpire Charles Owoc. We were leading 3-0 in the last half of the fourth when the Indies stalled for rain. Then, the umpire called the game."

If the forfeit is honored, the Slovaks trail the Moose by a half game.

Garden Park Raises Almost $25,000

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 10.—Approximately $25,000 flowed into the coffers of the Army and Navy relief funds and the USO today in receipts from the Armed Services Day at Garden State Park, Camden's new race track. The smallish crowd of 8746 was replete with khaki, brass buttons and gold braid.

McHALE RETURNS

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Johnny McHale, former Notre Dame monogram-winning center in football and more recently a star baseballer with Winston Salem, plans to return to the Notre Dame campus to continue his studies during the off season. He was signed and farmed out by the Detroit Tigers during his sophomore year.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Every one tries to do his part in helping the war situation . . . by that we mean buying stamps and bonds. Hundreds and hundreds of dollars worth of bonds are sold in New Castle daily. People save and do without some things in order that they might buy a bond . . . But some people are trying to fool some one . . . and from where we sit it looks like nobody but themselves. Every day finds a line of people in town waiting to cash their War Bonds . . . after two months you can cash your Bonds. A great many turn right around and buy another bond from their place of employment. In other words some people try to put up a big front . . . There are more than one trying this trick . . . who are they fooling? Some people we agree need to cash bonds when sickness and the like comes along . . . but the fellow who doesn't really have an emergency can always be picked out of the crowd.

Tomorrow night at the Walmo School there will be a flower and vegetable show. The doors will open at 7 and close at 9. Any child or adult may enter his prize products free of charge . . . and you who are not actual producers of flowers and vegetables may see the show . . . FREE also. So take a little ride out Friday night and see an exhibition that will be something.

* * *

On the 19th there will be a show of shows at Taggart Stadium . . . all members of the OCD of Lawrence County will be represented . . . this show will be an enlightening course for those who have a slight idea what the duties of OCD members are . . . so mark this date down . . . Saturday the 19th. More Air Raid Wardens and Fire Watchers are needed . . . why not offer your services . . . that is how your neighbor Air Raid Warden got his position . . . Call your post headquarters, you really should know where it is. You say it can't happen here . . . don't say that . . . it might happen and then you would be the foolish one . . . learn what to do and be ready for what ever happens.

* * *

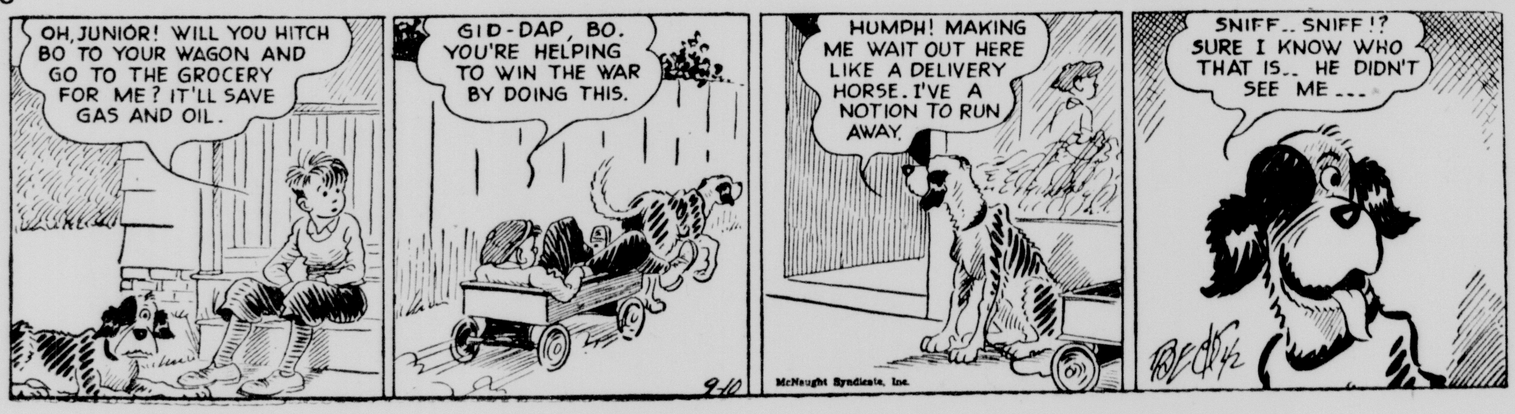

A large crowd is expecting to see a good football game on Friday night . . . the New Castle High team will play it's first game . . . let's hope it doesn't rain . . . Good clean sportsmanship from players and fans alike is important . . . especially fans.

Stock Market Sags Somewhat

Price Changes Generally Are Small In Market Trading Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Although price changes generally were small the stock market sagged further today. Trading continued quiet.

International Minerals common and preferred hit new highs. Pepsi-Cola was in demand at rising prices. In contrast, Postal Telegraph preferred lost 2 points on profit-taking and other communication issues were heavy.

Armour preferred lost over a point to a new low, and International Paper common again hit a new low.

Leaders like U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Westinghouse, and General Electric were inclined to sag.

Grains met profit-taking and quieted down after their runup of the two previous sessions. Cotton was lower. Some speculative rails advanced further in a quiet bond market.

Jury Convicts Youth In Death Of Step-Father

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 10—An hour and a half after it received the case, a jury of nine women and three men today convicted Russell F. Roddy, 18-year-old Lloydsville youth, of voluntary manslaughter in the automobile crash of his aged step-father on the night of last July 12th.

The jury also recommended mercy for the youth. President Judge J. Hilary Keenan, in his one-hour charge, limited the possible verdicts to first and second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or outright acquittal.

Roddy, in his own testimony, claimed his mother, who also was killed that night, was responsible for the crash that brought death to Ernest Fletcher, 62. He testified his mother swung the steering wheel of the car, forcing it to smash into Fletcher as he stood along the side of the road.

Judge Keenan characterized the Roddy case as both unusual and important, and said it was the first murder trial under his jurisdiction, wherein the alleged weapon was an automobile.

District Attorney C. Ward Eicher personally precluded the possibility of a death sentence when he told the jury that Roddy was "too young" for that. He asked for life imprisonment.

FAIR OR FOUL

(International News Service)

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Sept. 10.—"It isn't what you used to be, it's what you are today."

That was the refrain Lieut. Paul "Tony" Hinkle was singing today as he watched his brilliant array of football talent battle for places on the 1942 Great Lakes team.

Clipping for clipping, and man for man, there probably is no aggregation of gridders anywhere in the United States that can match the squad of candidates seeking the right to wear the togs of the world's greatest naval station. By past reputation—in college and in pro ranks—they're unbeatable.

What they'll do on the football field this fall is something else again, hence Coach Hinkle's little refrain. But so far as we are concerned, if Great Lakes doesn't have the best team in football, it's going to be mighty surprising.

Smith In Backfield

First of all, when you have a player like Bruce Smith in your backfield you've got a real start. Add to this No. 1 star of last year a dozen other brilliant and powerful backs like Pete Kmetovic of Stanford, Bob Sweiger, Minnesota, Steve Belichick of Western Reserve, Herman Schneidman of Iowa, and similar stalwarts, and you have a backfield which can stand up and actually thrive on the 11-game schedule.

Eight ends are listed on the squad, none under six feet in height nor under 185 pounds in weight. Two stars of the pro league—Carl Mulleneaux of the Green Bay Packers and Howard Hickey of the Cleveland Rams—seem to have the starting edge.

The tackles range from 225 to 250 pounds—the latter being the modest program estimate for Urban Odson of Minnesota. Jim Barber, 230-pounder from the Washington Redskins and Ray Busler of the Chicago Cardinals, along with Jim Daniell and Jack Stephenson of Ohio State, Nate Johnson of Illinois and Steve Meade of Kansas, make the tackle situation a coach's delight.

The guards are in the same class. Leading candidates seem to be Ken Robesky, Stanford, All-American, and Vic Marino, an All-Big Ten guard at Ohio State. "Dutch" Levy, 245-pounder from Minnesota, is another pillar of strength.

Top candidates for the center job are Bob Johnson, sophomore "iron man" at Purdue last year; Bob Nelson of Baylor, who ranked near the top in the pro league with Detroit last season, and Wendell Goldsmith of Emporia, who was on the New York Giants squad.

DICK TRACY—THE WATER ROUTE

Gen. Rommel's Illness Aid To Allied Armies

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGE
Written Especially for International News Service

Best news that has come out of Egypt since General Sir Archibald Wavell's victorious march against Mussolini's north African armies in January-February 1941 is contained in dispatches from Cairo and the near east to the effect that Nazi Tank Wizard Marshal Erwin Rommel has been stricken with a sudden mysterious illness and has returned to Germany for treatment.

Cairo also points out the possibility that Rommel's illness may be a bluff and that the real cause of his recall is perhaps the lack of success of his latest drive for Alexandria, which was repulsed by the forces of Britain's General Sir Harold Alexander with heavy tank losses.

General Bismarck Killed

This is possible but hardly probable. It is true that the fiery Rommel has many enemies in the Nazi general staff, but he has run the war in Africa for 18 months, generally with marked success. It is improbable that he would be removed from his command on account of a setback, even of considerable proportions. It is particularly unlikely that he would be removed because his second in command, General George von Bismarck, was killed in the tank fighting on the El Himeimat front last week.

Rommel and Von Bismarck have been leaders in the Axis desert war since the first appearance of German tanks in Africa. No other Nazi officer has anything like their experience in its detail.

While it seems unlikely that Rommel was removed from his command as a result of political workings in Berlin, the probability of his having succumbed to real illness is extremely high.

Tough Theatre of War

The north African theatre of war is one of the toughest and most unhealthful on the globe. The foxy Nazi marshal has been through two hot seasons there, when desert temperatures soar far above the hundred degree mark and Africa's dreaded Khamsin gales fill the atmosphere with dust and germs thick enough to shovel.

Under such conditions food and water are unavoidably polluted. Dysentery is rampant, ophthalmia turns the eyes into running sores which ever-present legions of flies spread and aggravate. The smallest cuts fester and tend to become infected. Swarms of mosquitoes turn regions where there is the least moisture into hotbeds of malaria.

Records of World War I indicate that the average British soldier in Egypt became ill or lost efficiency so that he had to be removed to a healthier climate in from six months to a year. On that basis, Rommel should be considerably overdue for a health breakdown, especially as he is approaching 50 years of age and has lost the recuperative ability of youth.

Opportune Time

Whatever the cause, the disappearance of the Nazi Afrika Corps' commander from north Africa, if he has indeed disappeared, comes at an extremely opportune time for the United Nations cause.

The tactical situation along the El Alamein front is highly unstable, offering great threats and great opportunities to both sides. Neither can afford to retreat. A sustained advance by either would almost certainly result in sweeping and decisive victory.

Under such circumstances it is impossible to over-estimate the advantage to United Nations fortunes of the disappearance of Field Marshal Rommel from the Nazi high command. From almost the beginning he has been their evil genius. Arriving at a time when Italian forces were on the run and seemed about to be swept out of the whole Mediterranean theatre, Rommel rapidly reversed the picture. Military men credit him with working out most of the salient features of desert war. His strategems and traps showed a military brain and unfettered intelligence of high order.

Rommel was extremely popular with his troops, most unpopular with the German high command. Unlike most German generals, he began his service as a sergeant. Rival generals say that he still acts like a sergeant and has never acquired the dignity of high rank.

His disappearance almost simultaneously with the death of Von Bismarck ofter United Nations forces a great opportunity. These two were the Nazi brain trust in Africa. Now the machine must flounder until successors can be found.

Highest Tax Rates Favored

Senate Committee Votes For Highest Income Tax Rates In History

MIDDLE CLASS IS HIT HARDER

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The senate finance committee today voted approval of the highest individual income tax rates in history, inserting a modification of the house-approved rates to cut the burden on low-income groups, but hitting the middle class still a little harder.

The income tax rates will range from 16 to 88 percent above exemptions, including the five percent "victory" modified gross income tax approved yesterday.

By adopting a treasury plan to ease the tax on low income groups and increase it on net income from roughtly, $2,000 to $8,000, the committee added $33,000,000 to the individual income tax yield in the house bill.

Of the $9,000,000,000 war tax program the committee action in approving modified house rates, plus the five percent "victory tax" raised the individual income tax payers share to $6,589,000,000 a year.

Effect of the changes in house rates, it was explained, is to lower the tax on single person's net income up to $2,000, married couples up to slightly over $2,500 and married couple with two dependents up to slightly over $3,000.

The tax above these limits, up to $8,000 net income, was boosted by a rearrangement of surtax rates.

Travelers To Show Air Raid Pictures Here Friday Night

Attention of present and prospective civilian defense workers is directed to a special program to be presented at the meeting of the United Commercial Travelers on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the east lodge room of the Cathedral.

Sound pictures, prepared by the Bell Telephone company, will be shown, covering the work of the air raid spotting organizations as well as the civilian defense program in general, and the United Commercial Travelers are cordially inviting the general public to attend the meeting and see these instructive films.

L. B. Round, director of the Civilian Defense Council, has heartily indorsed the program and suggests that all members of the civilian defense corps make every effort to attend the meeting.

Provide Warning

While the aircraft spotting group is under the direct supervision of the army fighter command and, hence, not an integral part of the local Civilian Defense Council, the film draws particular attention to this phase of defense activity, which will provide the first warning of an approaching raid.

The meeting Friday night is a regular monthly meeting of the United Commercial Travelers, but the organization has arranged to show the films as the first part of its program and reserve its regular business for later in the evening.

Russia Desires Second Front

Churchill's Address Is Published In Full By Papers In Moscow

International News Service

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's address to the House of Commons in which he disclosed that Soviet Russia is not satisfied with the war aid being given by Great Britain and the United States was published almost in full by Moscow newspapers today.

A summary of the speech was published yesterday without any comment.

At the time, however, well-informed observers expressed the view that Churchill summed up Russia's feelings fairly.

To say that there is any "serious disagreement" between Churchill and Premier Joseph Stalin is inaccurate. This would imply failure of the Churchill-Stalin conversations in Moscow, which is definitely not the case.

There is no doubt, however, that dissatisfaction does exist among the Soviet government and people over failure of the Allies to open a second front in Europe.

Farm Prices And Wages Must Be Tied Together

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Senate Democratic leaders today rejected a House proposal to give President Roosevelt "blank check" power to fix farm prices, wages and take any other action needed to check inflation.

"It just can't be done that way—you've got to tie farm prices and wages in the same bill and name them," said one prominent Senate leader.

A conference was planned between House Speaker Rayburn and Senator Alben Barkley, Ky., Democratic Senate leader, in an effort to agree upon an identical course to be pursued in both bodies in meeting Mr. Roosevelt's demand for lower farm price ceilings or face the President's exercise of his wartime powers.

News Briefs From City Hall

New Castle police today were asked to locate Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson, daughter of Robert Keaton, age 75, of Del Rio, Tex., who suffered a heart attack at Youngstown while en route to this city, and who was removed to the South Side hospital in Youngstown. Police here said at noon they had been unable to locate Mrs. Dawson.

Council met this morning in the City building and after introducing a bee prohibition bill sent it to, then reported it favorably from committee. When passed, no one will be permitted to keep bees here unless they first secure a revocable license from the health bureau. Those who now have bees must apply within 60 days from the time the bill is enacted into city law for such a license. The measure was inspired because Park avenue bees killed a dog recently, councilmen stated.

Council today in City building passed an ordinance authorizing the employment of two persons to make a survey for the purpose of alleviating the zoning situation. The present zoning law was passed in 1925, and because of increased industrial expansion, has become obsolete, according to Council. The men will operate under the supervision of City Solicitor Robert M. White.

When Mayor Charles B. Mayne today conducted police court he was confronted by half a dozen persons who had imbibed too freely last night, and also by a woman who reportedly altered a physician's prescription and obtained narcotics. Mayor Mayne ordered that the woman be placed in the care of the county physician for treatment.

Director of Grounds and Buildings Joseph D. Alexander today stated that the Mahoning avenue viaduct would not be painted this year. Bids were read recently, and it is probably they will be returned. However, Safety Director D. O. Davies asserted the viaduct is used for defense purposes and if the state will designate it as a defense structure the state will be included among those who must pay a proportionate rate for its upkeep. His motion directed the city legal bureau to investigate the possibility of the state being required to pay for a portion, at least, of the painting.

Police today were investigating a report that a watch valued at $42.50 was stolen yesterday from the Keller residence, 761 Lathrop street. Ford auto owned by Alex Romonchuk, 926½ North Cedar street, reportedly was stolen last night.

Luther Cox, colored, Youngstown, was arrested last night by city police on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. It was reported he was seen by OCD workers at Beaver and West Washington streets after his car had allegedly struck a curb and another machine. They followed him and he was taken into custody by police. Mayor Charles B. Mayne ordered he be prosecuted by the chief of police on a charge of driving while drunk.

WATCH CHILDREN

City police are guarding children against autos in the vicinity of all schools as usual this school season, police headquarters announced today.

Bomb Battlers Give Exhibition Here Last Night

Hundreds of OCD workers last night at Grant and Sampson streets attended the incendiary bomb fighting exhibition headed by Merle Brunton and assistant to the fire chief, George Harper.

Members of the Second precinct, Sixth ward air raid warden squad assisted Brunton in fighting the bombs. Auxiliary police under President Russell Melvin handled the crowd.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Chief Air Raid Warden Frank Sargent through a "mike" explained what was to take place, after which he turned over the public address system to Harper.

Brunton and the Sixth ward, Second precinct staff, then went into action and bombs which were touched up were extinguished, some being put out with sand and others with water.

Fire Chief James E. Thomas had a fire truck and city firemen present for any unexpected developments. Volunteer firemen also were present.

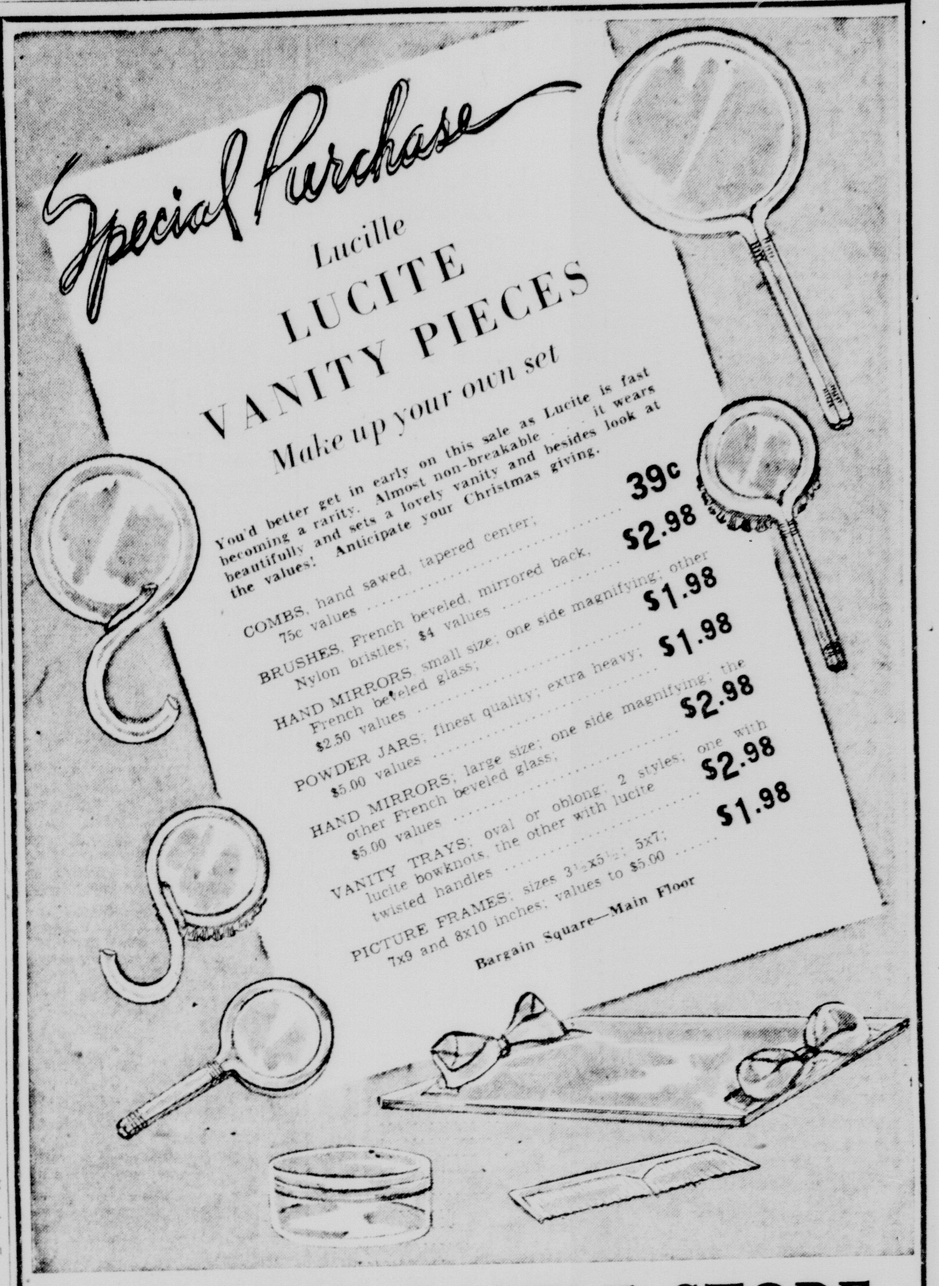

There is no "ideal husband". The fair test of one's success is not what he is or what he does, but whether he makes his wife happy.
